Hawaiian Government Has Its Eye on Filibusterers.

Eye on Filibusterers.

CHICLAGO, Sept. 6.—There are at present no visible signs of the flawallan filibustering band said to be organized in this city for the purpose of invading the island, and authorities and detectives believe the exposure of the plot will have the effect of quieting any further movements for a while. Hawalian Consul Job has received a letter from Minister Castle at Washington in which mention was made of the known organization of filibustering parties on the Pacific Coast.

"The secret agents of the Hawalian government," said he, "are watching these people closely, and will take steps to protect the Hawalian government. So far none of these operations have been detected this far inland, but the positive knowledge that such a movement has been on foot here will result in this point being watched. The organization of an armed band for the purpose of visiting a foreign country, whatever may be its mission, is a dangerous thing, for the Berlin treaty is explicit on such matters, and the government of the United States will make it uncomfortable for the men engaged in such a movement."

SAVED A TRAIN.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.-Miss Marth Gurnee, the pretty station agent at Mt. Ivy, N. Y., on the New Jersey and New York Railroad, saved a passenger train from a serious disaster yesterday train from a serious disaster yesterday by her presence of mind. A passing freight train set fire to the station with a shower of sparks. Miss Gurnee and her brother, almost the only residents of Mt. Ivy, were there alone. They removed the portable articles in the station and some barrels of oil from the freight-house, which also took fire. Then Miss Gurnee remembered that an east-bound passenger train was almost due. The track in front of the station was covered with debris, and there was risk of an accident. All the flags were burned up in the fire. Taking off her red petticoat, she sent her brother down the track with it and he flagged the train. Miss Gurnee was offered by one of the passengers 310 for the petticoat as a souvenir. She de-

FIRE-CURSED. Thousands of Acres of Timber As Burned in New Jersey.

REQULAR ASSOCIATED PRISE REPORT)

MAY'S LIANDING (N. J.,) Sept. 5.—A sudden shift of the wind changed the course of the forest fires that raged above this place, and sent the fire directly toward the north section of town. Seven miles of timber has been destroyed. While the dry weather continues and winds prevail, there is little chance of putting the fire out.

At Egg Harbor another fire has broken out, the flames being blown in the direction of Weymouth, a village a few miles from there. Hundreds of acres of pine and cedar have been destroyed, and the loss is very heavy. The fire which broke out near Tuckahoe on Tuesday is still burning, and the area of blazing timber is now two miles wide. The little village of Eldora is in the path of the fiamea.

Letter Received by a Kansas Editor Claims That the Alleged Swindler is a Hermit Named Schnell-Other Charges.

ORDGITTAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT. RICHMOND (Mo.,) Sept. 6.—Dr. Fra-ker, the insurance swindler, was to have been arraigned this morning, but the insurance companies were not ready to go on with the case, and it was postponed until early next week. This action will, it is said, simply force the prosecution to show its hand, and the prosecution to show its hand, and then let the case go to the grand jury. It is likely that heavy bail will be agreed on and be promptly furnished by the doctor's friends.

It is said here that the defense will attempt to show that Fraker was insane when he went away, and that his prind is not entirely right now. Firster mind is not entirely right now. Fraker seems to have the confidence of the people, and the general opinion prevail-ing is that he will not be sent to prison or even indicted.

Pack, editor of the Kansas Independent, which is pub-lished here, today states positively that lished here, today states positively that the man in custody and representing himself to be George W. Fraker, the insurance swindler, is not Fraker, but Schnell, a hermit who has lived for years in Minnesota and Michigan. Pack says the letter was written by a well-known citizen of Duluth, whose name he declines to give at this time. Schnell's companion in the woods near Tower, it is alleged, was not arrested because his evidence would prove conclusively that the prisoner is not Fraker.

Fraker.

J. P. Davis, president of the Kansas Mutual Life Insurance Company, said last night that there was not a shadow of a doubt as to the incentity of the man arrested at Tower. He said it was George W. Fraker, and it would be but a short time before all interested would admit it. The insurance companies, he says, would make no attempt to secure the money until all were satisfied. He is firmly of the opinion that Fraker will be sent to the penitentiary, although several leading lawyers whom he had consulted had expressed the opinion that there was no law under which he could be convicted.

He masqueraded as Julian Ralph, the newspaper man, and author for several months. Something over two years ago Charles F. Gulick, while in Florida, met Mrs. Jennie Armstrong, a wealthy young widow of West Union, Iowa. He was of a decided literary turn, with a fondness for productions of Julian Ralph. In an alleged burst of confidence. Gulick confided to Mrs. Armstrong the fact that he was Julian Ralph, gathering data for an article descriptive of Florida for Harper brothers under the assumed of Charles F. Gulick. Mrs. Armstrong returned to West Union and in the following spring he vis-ited her. His alleged identity leaked out and he at once became the social lion of the hour. Fancy dinners were spread in his honor, he was feted and driven about the country, entertained by ex-Gov. Larabee and literally accorded the freedom of the town. He frequently went to Chicago and claimed that he had charge of the interests of Harper brothers at the World's Fair.

West Union people attending the fair were not able to find him at Harper Bros.' headquarters, and it devel-oped later that at the same time the man was masquerading at West Union he was paying court to a rich widow at Cedar Rapids, still impersonating Julian Ralph, and claiming to be gathering material for a great political article. The next time he went to West Union, after this discovery, he met with a reception he was unpre-pared for, and, as several hours would elapse before the passenger train would leave town, he sneaked to the depot and boarded a freight train. The ast heard of him he was in California. and from San Francisco is said have shipped to Honolulu.

criminal jurisprudence as a defense for crime. Bell pointed out that it ap-peared that the majority of medical peared that the majority of medical men in the country did not recognize a hypnotic trance as an existing fact. The lawyers and judges were on the same grounds as the doctors. In the courts of Europe the contrary was the fact and men of highest character and professional attainments devoted their best efforts to its study and elucidation. As it was with professional circles, so it was with the people.

Prof. Carl Sextus of Chicago wrote to say that a natural criminal could be made to do criminal acts under hypnotic influence, but not a person of real moral worth.

Dr. W. L. Howard of Baltimore said Dr. W. L. Howard of Baltimore said that hypnotism was a reality. He gave several instances of hypnotized persons in Baltimore, including his own servant, whom he sent to a neighboring physician's laboratory to steal everything the doctor had. The following resolution was adopted on a motion by Clark Bell: "Resolved, that, in the opinion of the Medico-Legal Congress, not only should the subject of medical jurisprudence be recognized in the various institutions of learning, but in medical and law schools of this country; that such schools should include it in their studies, and that examinations on this subject be made necessary for the graduation in either medicine or law."

HUGE BLUNDER

Over a Million Dollars too Much Taxes.

No Credit Due the Governor for Vetoed Appropriations.

Reach to the Root of the Trouble at All.

His Pruning-knife Has Failed to Further Particulars of the Monkey Work with the Appropriation Bills-Its Subsequent Effect on the Tax Levy.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6 .- (Special Dispatch.) A special to the Chronicle gives the following concerning the excess of money in the tax levy: "Gov. Budd vetoed $2,065,712.91 in general and special appropriations; of this, $1,513,-212.91 came out of the appropriations for the forty-seventh fiscal year, and the the forty-seventh fiscal year, and the balance out of the appropriations for the forty-eighth. Of this, $650,000 for orphans and half orphans had to be paid, anyhow as provided by statute, and was simply vetoed because it did not belong in the General Appropriation Bill. This amount, therefore, must be subtracted from totals vetoed by the Governor, half from the forty-seventh and half from the forty-sight fiscal and half from the forty-eight fiscal years, leaving the actual surplus for this year, $1,188,212.91. Had this unappropriated amount been left out, the tax levy would have been 57 or 58 cents, instead of 68½ cents." The Chronicle tax levy would have been 57 or 58 cents, Instead of 68½ cents." The Chronicle says regarding the matter:

"The tax levy passed by the Legistature during the last days of the session, and approved by the Governor ten days after adjournment, contains a serious blunder. In fact, it directs a levy of taxes for the forty-seventh and forty-eighth fiscal years of an amount exceeding the appropriations made, and the estimates for standing appropriations by about $1,127,266. The whole of the excess has been levied and collected during the current fiscal year. This blunder occurred entirely with respect to the general fund.

"The act known as the tax levy directs the state Board of Equalization to fix such ad valorem rate of taxation as, after allowing for delinquencies, will raise for the general fund for the forty-eighth year, $4,913,106, and for the forty-eighth year, $4,913,106, and for the forty-eighth year, $2,681,371, making a total for the general fund of $7,584,477. The General Appropriation Bill, as passed and sent to the Governor, appropriated $5,728,738. Gov. Budd struck out items aggregating $1,105,000. His friends and partisans made much of

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The afternoon session of the Medico-Legal Congress was opened with the reading of a paper by Clark Bell on "Hypnotism in Courts of Law."

Bell sent a letter to several prominent physicians asking: "In crime committed by the hypnotic power, can the subject be the unconscious and innocent agent and the instrument? If the subject is unconscious and even unwilling, has the hypnotizer such power and domination over the hypnotized as could control action to the extent of commission of a crime? Is it possible to remove by hypnotic suggestion from the mind of the subject all memory of acts or occurrences which happened in the hypnotic state?"

Reports in the affirmative were received from several eminent professors, while others, conceding that persons in a hypnotic state were made constantly amenable to control by suggestion, denied that hypnotism has any place in criminal jurisprudence as a defense for crime. Bell pointed out that it aplaneous appropriations amounting to $898.812. and deficiency appropriations and claims passed aggregating $294.661, making a total of actual appropriations payable out of the general fund of $5.817.211. To this must be added the estimate for the support of the orphans and half-orphans, authorized to be expended under the act of 1883, say $650, e00, making a grand total of $6.67.211. But as the tax-levy act directs that the sum of $7.594.477 be raised for the general fund for two years, it is apparent that there will be a surplus of $1.127.266. or, in other words, that the Legislature and the Governor between them made a blunder to that extent.

"Practically the whole of the excess will fall upon the levy for the forty-eighth fiscal year is actually short of the appropriations payable during that year. One-half of the general appropriations, payable this year, amounts to $2.311.859. All of the deficincles are payable at once, say $294.661. Not less than $800.000 of the excess expenses.

able at once, say $249.661. Not less $600,000 of the $898,812 of miscella able at once, say $249.661. Not less than $600.000 of the $898.812 of miscellaneous and special appropriations are available during the year, and $325.000 is required for the orphans, making $3,531,530. But the tax levy for the year for the general fund is $4,913,106, so that the surplus will amount to $1,381,576.

"Of course, the deficit next wear can be made up from this, but when the Legislature meets in January. 1897, there should be not less than $1,127,266 on hand, supposing that the taxes are collected up to the percentage allowed for delinquencies. It will then be in order for Gov. Budd to explain this remarkable financiering, for which he is equally responsible with the Legislature that will then have passed out of existence. Meantime, the people will have to pay an excess of some 10 cents on each $100 of valuation for the present year over what the rate ought to be."

FURTHER LITIGATION.

Appeal Its Sugar-bounty Case.

Appeal 14s Sugar-bounty Case.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—There seems no doubt that the Oxnard sugar-bounty question, which was yesterday decided by Comptroller Bowler adversely to the Oxnard Company on constitutional grounds, will go to the Supreme Court of the United States for final determination. Within a few days Secretary Carlisle will certify the case to the Court of Claims under Sec. 10,630 of the Revised Statutes, stating to the court that it is alleged by the claimants that a right under the Constitution has been denied them and asking, as great public interests are involved, that the court pass upon the matter at an early date. There seems no reasonable doubt that the Oxnard Company will favor an early judication. It is probable, in view of the interests involved, that the court will consent to try the case almost immediately after it reconvenes on October 28, unless claimants ask further time for preparation. Whatever the decision in the case, it undoubtedly will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Another Large Expedition from Thi Country Doomed to Destruction— Why a Spanish Minister Resigned-Morn's Money.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Atrocities by Spaniards as revolting as those said to have been committed by the Japanese at Port Arthur have just been reported to the Cuban revolutionary party in New York. Enrique Trujilo, editor o El Porvenir, received a letter today from Juan Maspons Franco, chief of staff under Gen. Maximo Gomez, the commander in chief of the insurgent army. It is dated "Headquarters in the field, August 3," and describes the capture and recapture of the city of Baire, and the massacre of thirty-seven in-offensive Cubans, mostly women and children, by Spaniards under Gen. Gar-rido.

On Tuesday morning, according to Col. Franco's letter, a company of insurgents under Jose Rabi surprised the Spanish garrison in the fortress commanding the city of Baire, killed more than seventy men and took fifty-six prisoners. They captured a large supply of arms and persuaded the prisoners to enlist in the insurgent ranks. An how later three companies of Spanish ners to enlist in the insurgent rates. An hour later three companies of Spanish troops under command of Garrido, came up, and, after a short but sharp resistance, the Cubans fled, leaving the fortress again in the hands of the in-

Within five minutes the streets of Baire were deserted by the panic-stricken natives, but the Spaniards followed them into their houses and their own rooms. Age, sex and condition were wholly disregarded by these liveried butchers, says Col. Franco. HEADING OFF ANOTHER EXPEDITION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.-The Press prints the following:

"Yesterday afternoon word was received by Tomas Estrada Palma, President, that a large consignment of arms for the Cuban insurgents would be shipped from New Orleans this mornal message also came about the snipped from New Orleans this morn-ing. A message also came about the same time from New Orleans to a se-oret agent of the Spanish government. According to these dispatches 3000 Rem-ington rifles and 300,000 cartridges were ington rifles and 300,000 carringes were to be shipped to some small Cuban port. These had been lying on the Charles-street wharf in New Orleans for several days jast, packed in barrels of flour. Immediately after midnight, for several days sast, packet in barrers of flour. A WARNING TO SPAIN. NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—A special to the World from Colon, Colombia, says, the World from Colon, Colombia, says, referring to the dispatches reporting that a Spanish squadron is going to the Antilles to urge Spain's claims against the United States in the Allianca affair, that the Isthmian Press declares: "Such a move on the part of Span at present would hasten her downfall more than anything else. She has a good and strong navy, but let her not forget that the United States has a navy, too. If she looks at the United States navy lists he will see something that will startle will see something that will startle and cause her to take a milder se in treating with Uncle Sam."

BIG MONEY FOR MORA. WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Spanish government has yielded to the representations of the United States in resentations of the United States in the matter of the place of payment of the money in satisfaction of the Mora claim, and will pay it in Washington on the date agreed on, the 15th inst. As the amount is large, the payment will be conducted through the State Depart-

It has been represented that the claimant, Antonio Mora, has assigned so much of his claim that he would receive practically nothing from this settlement. It is authoritatively stated in his behalf that this is not true, and that, on the contrary, after all assignments are satisfied, he will have left between $700,000 and $800,000. Forty per cent of the total amount, or $600,000, is consumed in the payment of lawyers' fees and the expense of the prosecution of the claim. A small part of the remaining amount has been anticipated in meeting the expenses of living.

He would not consent that Spain should be put in the wrong.

J. W. Britton, president of the Britton Tin Works, said today: "There is in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 invested in the thirteen mills at present operated in this country and from twenty-seven thousand to thirty thousand men are employed. In four months from now not one of the mills will be running. Last spring tin-plate bar was selling at $18.80 per ton. At that price we were able to make a little money. Today the plate bar cannot be bought for less than $27 per ton. None is being offered for sale, however, as there is no market for it."

Lake, in the vicinity of Dodd Camp, where he now is. About a fortnight ago Gen. Harrison endeavored to buy the land which surrounds Big Moose Lake. This is one of the most delightful spots in this vicinity, and has been a favorite hunting and fishing ground for the general since he came here.

This land, which is about twelve miles from Old Forge, is in litigation, and Dr. Webb wrote to Gen. Harrison to that effect. In doing so, he gave him the refusal of five lots on First Lake, near the Little Moose Lake trail. These lots are but a short distance from Dodd Camp. Before the deal between Gen. Harrison and Dr. Webb is closed, the former will want to know if there are any prospects of the Big Moose property being removed from litigation. Dr. Webb, if he does not succeed in selling the property to Gen. Harrison, will dispose of it to some club, but from the present outlook, Gen. Harrison will probably spend his summers with his family on First Lake. This region he has become greatly attached to. It is not far from the Adirondack League Club, and is very desirable property.

The dispatch gives definite and final official confirmation of the reports of success of the revolution. The conflict has lasted several months, and the reports of Alfaro's movements have been so contradictory as to occasion doubts as to the success of his movements. But Gommander Watson's dispatch removes all doubt, and shows that the rebellion has culminated in a revolution.

O'Brien and Walcott Held-Ameri cans Win at Golf—The Cambridge Boys—Sacramento Races—Another Bloomer Marriage.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) NEW YORK, Sept. 6 .- The tale of the America's cup has been many times told, but it never loses interest. It was during the year 1851 that the schooner yacht America went to Europe and won the cup which has ever since borne the name of that vessel. The idea of building the boat was conceived by Commodore John C. Stevens of the New York Yacht Club and a boat. In the syndicate with the com-modore were Hamilton Wilkes, George L. Schuyler, James Hamilton and J. B. Finley.
-While the vessel was in the course of construction—that was in March, 1851—the Royal Yacht Squadron, whose members had heard what was being done, sent a communication to Commodore Stevens, offering hospitalities to the New Yorkers, and indicated that the Yorkers could find all the received. that the Yankees could find all the rac-ing they wanted if they had the nerve to bring their boat across the wate The nerve was not lacking, and the yacht, which had been named America. When the America first appeared before the gaze of the Englishmen she created a great surprise. Nothing like her had ever been seen before, and it quickly became known that the new arrival was a racer. This was the year of the Crystal Palace World's Fair, and an international regatta was arranged as a part of the exhibition.

The regatta took place on August 22, and the prize was the Royal Squadron cup, worth 100 guineas. The course was from Cowes around the lisle of Wight, without time allowance for tonnage. The America had four-teen competitors, several of them being of greater tonnage than herself. They were the Duke of Mariborough's schooner Wyvern, 250 tons; Marquis of Conyngham's schooner Constance, 218 tons; J. Wills's cutter, Alarm, 128 tons, and W. H. Ecker's three-masted sloop Brilliant, 192 tons. The America measured 120 tons.

The regatta created the liveliest enthusiasm. Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort shared in the excitement, and went to Cowes to witness the event. When the America beat the whole fleet of English racers, the completely crestfallen the event. When the America beat the whole fleet of English racers, the competitors were completely crestfallen and utterly surprised.

The America afterward sailed in a match with the 100-ton schooner Titania in a strong breeze, and beat her by more than an hour. Commodore Stevens could not induce anybody else to meet him, and he finally soild the yacht to Lord Blonquiere for $5000, under whose management she afterward raced the 84-ton cutter Arrow twice, losing one race and winning the other. The yacht was finally converted into a blockade-runner, and while in this business she was scuttled. After the war the government raised her and made a schoolship of her for the cadets at Annapolis. When the Cambria challenged for the cup in 1870 the Navy Department fitted the yacht out for competition, but she finished no better than fourth. The old boat finally passed into the hands of Gen. B. F. Butler of Massachusetts, and is still owned by the late general's son.

In 1857, Stevens, Schuyler and Wilkes, who alone survived of the syndicate that built the America, presented the cup won in 1851 to the New York Yacht Club, in whose hands it has since remained as a trophy for which any country may challenge.

It was not until 1870, however, that

It was not until 1870, however, that came off in New York Harbor on August 8. A grand fleet entered for the race, and great enthusiasm prevailed. The Magic was first away on the journey, and she led over the entire course. Ashbury was undaunted by his defeat, however, and challenged the next year with a new boat, the Livonia. Ashbury finally consented to a match of seven races. On the first day the Columbia was chosen to sail, and the Britisher was "never in it." On the second day the Columbia was again picked and won, but on the third day the Livonia won by 15m. 10s. Two more races were carried out, the Sappho, the American representative, being the winner of both. The fifth race made a victory of four, or a majority of the seven races, for the New York boats.

A lapse of four years took place before the cup was next raced for. In 1876, the centennial year, Maj. Charles Gifford, vice-commodore of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, headed a syndicate which built the schooner Countess of Dufferin at Belleville, Ont., and sent her, after having obtained a promise from the New York Yacht Club that they would offer but one defender in America, the best two out of three races. Commodore Voorhis's schooner Madeline was made defender. Only two races were necessary. The Madeline won both with ease.

The Canadians made another attempt to capture the cup in 1881, when the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club of Belleville challenged with a centerboard sloop called the Atalanta, which was also built and sailed by Capt. Cuthbert.

The Mischief, owned by J. P. Busk, was selected to meet her, and on November 4 she defeated the Atalanta by 28 m. 19 s. It was in 1885 that Sir Richard Singer by J. Beaver-Webb, gave our yatchsmen a scare, but that very fast vessel met one a little faster and the cup was still safe. It was in 1885 that she came over from England and met the ironchad Priscilla was constructed on plans laid out by A. Cady Smith, the popular New York designer, and the new boats went in the trial races with the Figlishman. The Puritan and Priscilla was constructed on p twice and was selected to defend the cup.

The Puritan-Genesta match consisted of the best two out of three races. Two disappointing starts were made when the event was called off. The Puritan fouled the Genesta at the start and was promptly and properly ruled out. On September 11 they made a third unsuccessful start. On September 14 they sailed over the New York Yacht Club course, a distance of about thirty-eight nautical miles, and the Puritan won by 16 m. 19 s., after allowing the Genesta 28 seconds.

It was on September 15 that the Genesta 28 seconds.

The race was twenty miles down the wind and a beat back. The cutter boat beat the center-board Im. 21s. on the run out and on the beat back the Burgess boat managed to cross the line Im. 38s. ahead. The Genesta won the Breton Reef and Cape May cups from the schooner Dauntless before she returned to England.

schooner Dauntless before she returned to England.

In 1886 the Boston people built the Mayflower. The cutter Galatea, owned by Lieut. William Henn. R.M., and designed by Beaver-Webb, was the challenger and she had her turn at being beaten in two straight races. The trial races in 1886 were contested by the Mayflower, Puritan, Priscilla and Atlantic, a sloop paid for by a party of Brooklyn capitalists. The Mayflower was easily the best of the quartette and she successfully defended the cup. On September 7 again over their inside course she defeated the Galatea by 12m. 12s. and two days later in the open the Eurgess creation won by 29m. 3s.

The Scotch steel cutter Thistle was the next challenger to take a walloping. She was designed by George Watson of Glasgow. Her owners were very confident when they sent their ship over the Atlantie in 1887. At the instigation of Payne, Burgess then turned out the Volunteer which proved to be a wonder in windward work, but only a single trial race with the Mayflower was needed to show the new boat's superiority.

trial race with the Mayflower was needed to show the new boat's superiority.

Two years ago Lord Dunraven built another yacht which was the second of the name of Valkyrie, and brought her over after the cup. The events of 1893 are within easy recollection and memorable will they always be. Everybody remembers how four big single-stickers were built to compete for the honor of defending the cup, Gen. Payne was at the front with the Jubilee. One New York syndicate procured the Colonia and another body of New York yachtsmen chipped in to build the Vigilant. The fourth candidate came from Boston and was called the Pilgrim. The Vigilant was selected to defend the cup and after several glorious trials she beat the Valkyrie II in three straight races.

The match this year between the Valkyrie III and the Defender will be comprised of the best three out of five races. All will be started from the Sandy Hook Lightship, which is seven and seven-eighth miles outside of Sandy Hook. They will be held on alternate days, the first programme being for September 7. The course will be thirty at fifteen miles to windward or leeward and return; the triangular course will be ten miles to the leg until one of the racers wins three races.

It is generally admitted that this year will see the closest contest ever had for the cup. The Valkyrie III showed before she left home that she is the fastest yacht ever built over there, at least in light weather. The Defender has been tried in all kinds of winds, though she has not yet been out in a rough sea, and it is the universal opinion among experts that she is better than the Vigilant by 10m., if not more, in thirty miles, and the Vigilant is believed to be four minutes faster than she was last year. There has been some betting on the result of the match, the backers of the English yacht having invariably demanded odds. They have asked for 7 to 5, yet in some cases have accepted 5 to 4. Most of this Valypractical yachtsmen, but by sporting men who have been jed to believe from the newspapers that the Valkyrie III is going to furnish surprising speed. Among the experts there is caution displayed in making predictions.

WILL NEVER DIE.

LONDON, Sept. 7.-The Chronicle says this morning: "If the Valkyrie III does not hoist the winning flag today or on Tuesday, we shall never build a yacht that will do as well in the dry air of American waters as in the moist winds of Albion. Yet we may be sure that the rivalry now established will not die."

SURPRISING FIGURES. NEW YORK, Sept. 6 .- The result of the measurer's work on the yachts was a great surprise. No good judgmen thought the English yacht would give over a minute and a half in a thirty over a minute and a half in a thirtymile course to the Defender, yet many capable critics said the challenger would give a minute, but that sne should yield less than half a minute was astonishing to all the smart people. However, here are her exact figures, and they speak for themselves:
Length of the load-water line of the Defender, 88.45 feet;length from aftend of main boom taxtorward point of measurement, 181.76 feet; length from fore side of foremast to Torward point of measurement, 13.55 feet; length the extreme of spinnaker boom, 73.36 feet;
length of main gain, 64.95 feet; length of topmast, 57.42 feet; one-fifth, 45.95
feet; height of upper side of main boom to topsail-halyard block, 125.48 feet; sail area as per rule, 112.25 feet; sail-of topmast, '57.42 feet; one-fifth, 45.95 feet; height of upper side of main boom to topsail-halyard block, 125.48 feet; sail area as per rule, 112.26 feet; sailing length, as per rule, 10.36 feet.

Valkyrie HI—Length of load-water-line, 88.55 feet; length from aft end of main boom to fore point of measurement, 186.02 feet; length from fore side of foremast to forward point of measurement. 78.94 feet; length of extreme of spinnaker boom, the same; length of main gaff, 59.50 feet; length of topmast, 55.98; one-fifth, 44.78 feet; height of upper side of main boom to topsail-halyard block, 129.80; sail area as per rule, 114.14; sailing length, as per rule, 101.49 feet.

When Hyslop brought the measurements to the New Tork Tacht Clubhouse he said that the Valkyrie would have to allow the Defender 29.10 seconds. It was only his business to turn the measurements over to the Regatta Committee and let the committee decide what the timeallowance should be. Nevertheless he felt that 29.10 seconds was the fair thing. The committee considered the question for a long tume, and at 11.15 o'clock tonight posted up a notice on the club's bulletin board to the effect that the allowance would be 29 seconds, leaving off Hyslop's added one-tenth of a second.

The races will, perhaps, be very close, but no tenth of a second will separate the boats at the finish. It was noticed that the load-water-line lengths of the ships show a difference of only forty-hundredths in favor of the Defender's gaff went considerably toward reducing the small advantage gained on the water line.

The Source of All Tumults on Chinese Soil is in the High Officials of the Empire—Arrest of the Mongol Mob Lender.

(REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.) LEXINGTON (Ky.,) Sept. 6.—President E. P. Pearce of Kentucky Wesleyan College at Kinchester today received the following stirring letter from Dr. C. F. Reid of Shanghai, China, a citizen of the United States and pre-siding elder of the Shanghal district of the Methodist Church, South:

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10.—Only two weeks ago today I sent you an account of the Sze-Chuen outrages, and today I am sending you accounts of the massacre at Ku-Chang. Had our Minister acted promptly and adequately in the first case, the second would probably not have occurred, and we should have been, spared the spectacle of the sight of young and consecrated women dragged from their beds and brutally massacred, helpless infants hacked to death, and a faithful servant of God burned in bed. I am sending you these accounts in hope you will use them where they will do the most good. I wish I could put my copy in the hands of every editor, every Congressman and every other man who has any interest in the welfare of the church or the honor of his country.

We do not seek for revenge, but we do ask for justice and protection, which every American has a right to demand, and no civilized nation has the right to withhold from the humblest citizen. Foreigners in China are unanimous in the bellef that a little prompt and vigorous effort would at once put an end to these things. We have lost all hope of help from Peking, and are now appealing directly to Washington. Will you not help us?

Unless something is speedily done, we shall have to abandon all our interior work, which represents so many years of toil and sacrifice. In our opinion the action required at this time is the appointment of a strong commission with such rank and authority as will enable them to try and fix the guilt of the highest official. To punish a few coolles will be more than useless. We must go to the source of tnese troubles, which is found in some of the highest officials of the empire.

REGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTA EAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The tak-ing of testimony in the trial of Theo-dore Durrant is proceeding slowly. Dur-ing the three days in which witnesses have been on the stand all that has been established is that Blanche La-mont is dead and that her body bore marks of violence. The prosecution is inclined to make speed, wasting no time in unnecessary questions. On the other hand the defense seems to be threading uncertainties and searching for technicalities. In the cross-examination of witnesses the defendant's attorneys continually throw out fishing-lines house to act the discrepancy in lines, hoping to catch a discrepancy in any that are material. The police de-tectives are still gathering testimony to strengthen the prosecution. It is now said that the defense will rely largely on the improbability of the prosecution proving its case beyond

Today's witnesses in the trial were introduced by the prosecution to complete the evidence that Blanche Lamont was murdered. Policeman Riehl, who accompanied Detective Gibson to Emanuel Church on the day Blanche Lamont's body was discovered, testified to the condition of the corpse and to the presence of blood on the floor near the girl's head, on the belfry stairs and on the floor where it had dripped from the steps. He states that the thick dust on the floor of the belfry showed marks of footprints, but there was no evidence of a struggle there, the inference being developed by the defense that the murder was committed downstairs and the body carried to the tower. The defense will try to show that one man could not have borne this burden unaided. The prosecution will try to prove that Blanche weighed only 110 pounds and that Durrant could have carried her with little difficulty.

IN THE COURTROOM.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—An immense crowd struggled for admission to Judge Murphy's courtroom; this morning to hear the evidence in the Durrant trial. The day's proceedings began with the recalling of C. G. Noble, an uncle of Blanche Lamont, who testified that he had identified the body of his niece at the morgue.

Policeman Riehl, who accompanied Detective Gibson when the latter went to view the body when first found in Emanuel Church, was the next witness. He described the belfry and bioodstains on the stairway leading up to the belfry landing where the body was found. He said that blood had dripped down the stairway. Riehl said that he found blood in three places on the found. He said that blood has dupped down the stairway. Riehl said that he found blood in three places on the floor beside the dead body, on the stair-way, where it had dripped through from the floor, and at the top of the

from the floor, and at the top of the steps.

The attorneys for Durrant introduced a photograph of the ground floor and of the place where the dead body was found, and made the witness repeat with reference to the photograph all his testimony. The witness had a long cross-examination from the defense. He was made to repeat statements again and again, and Durrant's counsel tried to tangle the witness' on minute and seemingly unimportant bits of evidence. Riehl stated that the belifry landing was covered with dust so thick that his footprints left tracks. The steps on the belifry landing was covered with dust so thick that his footprints left tracks. The steps on the belifry were also dusty. The defense emphasized the presence of the dust and made witness describe the dust-covered floor and steps several times as if it was intended to utilize the statements to Durrant's advantage.

Thomas Smith, a morgue deputy, was next called by the prosecution. He was absent. Dist. Atty. Barnes said that it was necessary to examine Smith next to preserve the continuity.

no other witness while waiting for Smith. A sheriff's deputy was sent for Smith while the court took a recess. Then the court was again called to order and J. F. Hallett, another deputy, testified that with Smith he had removed the body of Blanche Lamont from the church to the morgue. While carrying the body down the stairs of the belfry they had met C. G. Noble, who had identified the body as that of his niece. The court at this point took a recess till 2 o'clock.

At the afternoon session Policeman T. J. Coleman swore that on April 16 he was searching in Emanuel Church for articles belonging to Blanche Lamont. He found two doorknobs hidden in a dark corner. They had been broken off the belfry door. The presecution will try to show that Durrant broke off these knobs the day he murdered Blanche.

Star Dare, a millman, was the last witness of the day. He told how he found the various articles of Blanche Lamont's clothing concealed in the belfry, and identified the garments produced in court as the ones he found. The case will not go on tomorrow, but will be taken up again op Monday.

duced in court as the ones he found. The case will not go on tomorrow, but will be taken up again on Monday.

A GHASTLY FIGURE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—A fresh stage in the Durrant murder case was reached today, a stage that was trilling in its horror and kept the crowded courtroom almost gasping with interest. The story of the finding of Blanche Lamont's clothes that were hidden away among the rafters of Emanuel Church belfry, was told on the witness stand by the man who found them, and as each torn, ragged bit of cloth was shown the crowd swayed with excitement. There was just one man in all that crowd who seemed to feel no interest in the garments. This was the man who of all others might have been expected to shudder and cover his eyes when the clothes were exposed, the man accused of the murder of the girl who wore those garments when she was last seen alive.

The introduction of the girl's clothes was rather startling, almost theatrical. It happened soon after the noon recess. A man bearing a burden pushed through the crowd into the courtroom. No one could see exactly what he held in his arms, but it appeared to be a woman's form. The women in the courtroom, and there were many of them, were particularly disturbed. What the belliff brough it into court was really harmless enough, simply a dressmaker's dummy over which had been draped Blanche Lamont's basque and skirt. In order to make it realistic, however, the dummy was, as near as could be, the dead girl's height and figure, a tall, slight, girlish figure, undeveloped, but still not lacking in grace. The basque and skirt were torn and wrinkled, but the tears were pinned up in part, and the gown draped so as to show much as it must have been when its wearer was alive.

They stood the dressmaker's dummy beside the witness stand and there it remained all afternoon and to the ex-cited imagination of the attendants on the Durrant trial—and it is a trial that sets the dullest nerves on edge—the poor sets the dullest nerves on edge—the poor figure seemed like an accusing presence. Men and women shuddered as they looked at it. It made Blanche Lamont, who, under the fuss and technicalities of trial, has seemed more like an abstraction, one of the conditions in a game, the stakes of which are Theodore Durrant's life, appear as a young girl who really liyed and whose bright young life had been cut short by a flend. Probably nothing in the trial has done so much to revive the thrill of horror that swept over the country, when it was first known that two young girls had been outraged and murdered in the church.

had been outraged and murdered in the church.

Durrant, like everybody else in the courtroom, watched the stiff, pathetic girlish figure by the witness-chair, but his gaze did not rest on it long. It must have reminded him very strongly of the girl he was with on the 3d of April. She wore that dress when, according to his own story, he escorted her to school in the morning, and she wore it, accoring to the testimony of the prosecution's witnesses, when she walked with him again in the afternoon to her death. It did not hold his attention long. Some ladies, friends of his mother's, had come into court and sat beside the prisoner and his parents. His polite duty to pay them the ordinary courtesies, as if this had been a reception at his mother's house instead of a trial for his life, took his attention from the figure on the platform. He chatted amicably with his mother and with Mrs. Rose M. French, who is one of the religious ladies who have faith in Durrant's innocence.

The women laughed and chatted with The women laughed and chatted with him, apparently very much pleased that the grewsome surroundings have not made their favorite gloomy. The little family party remained while the murdered girl's under-garments and other wearing apparel were being held up for the inspection of the jury and identified by the man who had dragged them out from among the dusty rafters of the belifty.

identified by the man who had dragged them out from among the dusty rafters of the belfry.

The frame on which is draped the school dress of Blanche Lamont answers more purposes than one. For instance, the defense has bent its energies for two days in showing the extreme height of the Emanuel Church belfry, the steepness of the stairs and generally suggesting to the jury by inference that it was almost impossible that a small man like Durrant could have carried the body of a tail girl like Blanche Lamont up all those stairs.

Autopsy Physician Barrett's testimony that, in his opinion, the girl weighed 140 pounds helped this contention of the defense. As a matter of fact, the girl weighed under 120 and the dressmaker's figure bears this out. The bust is that of an undeveloped girl, the waist so slender that a man's two hands can span it. The hips and shoulders are very narrow. So "Exhibit G" in this case is quite an argument for the prosecution's theory. Dr. Barrett's mistake is accounted for by the fact that when he saw the girl she had been ten days dead and naturally appeared very different from the slender girl she really was.

SKELETONS OF THE CASE.

SKELETONS OF THE CASE. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6. — The skeleton of the defense case in the trial of Durrant is forming so as to be faintly visible. Whether they have the hinted will clear Durrant completely or not, they will try the police depart-ment. There will be a whole lot in the trial about the blindness of the police preconceived idea that preconceived idea that guilty man.

By disputing every proposition of the prosecution, and assuming all the time prosecution, and assuming everything everything. By disputing every proposition of the prosecution, and assuming all the time that the police are turning everything against the prisoner, they will raise a cloud of contention and surmises that, with what evidence they will produce of Durrant's previous good character and the alibi witnesses, they hope will raise the reasonable doubt in the jury's mind that will deter them from bringing a verdict of guilty.

the reasonable doubt in the jury's mind that will deter them from bringing a verdict of guilty.

Now it is certain that the trial will be a very long one. If such minor witnesses as the detective who merely found the body, and the physician who only conducted the autopsy are cross-examined for half a day, how long will the attorneys for Durrant keep the witnesses who actually give testimony against Durrant on the stand? Mrs. Leak, who will swear she saw Durrant go into the church that fatal afternoon with Blanche Lamont; Oppenhelmer, the second-hand dealer in jewelry, who will swear that Durrant tried to sell him one of the dead girl's rings, the witnesses to whom Durrant made statements inconsistent with the present theory of the defense, and with facts that the police will prove will undoubted by kept on the stand-for days. Dist.-Atty. Barnes once said it would only take two weeks to get in the evidence. If it does not occupy two months present indications count for months present indications count for months present indications count for nothing.

So far, the case has been almost ex-

So far, the case has been almost exclusively one of models, maps; charts, plans and diagrams. The witnesses testify with pointer in hand, and every spot they mention they indicate either on the elaborate model of the tower or on the diagrams. To make the thing perfect the prosecution will produce a doll that will represent the dead girl in the tower model. It is as pretty a doll as ever delighted a baby, but it will play a grewsome part in this trial. It is one of those pretty French dolls with moveable limbs and head, tumbled hair and eyes that close. It will be laid in the corner of the miniature belfry, with arms folded across its breast and head turned slightly to one side, and kept in position by two tiny blocks of wood. Then the jury will know more vividly than words can tell them just what was the state of things in Emanuel Church when Detective Glbson broke down the belfry door and found the murdered girl.

Durrant takes the livellest sort of interest in the model of the church, with which he was so familiar. He leaned over to Detective Morse and whispered suggestions and comments all the time that Policeman Russell was pointing out the distances in his model.

In the interval between the disappearance of Miss Lamont and the finding of her body in the belfry the tongue of Durrant was busy. To some people he declared that he could not account for the mysterious disappearance or the girl. With tears in his eyes he said she had been a pure girl, and he could not reason in his own mind a theory of her absence. To others, in several instances to reporters, he said that he felt confident that the girl had gone astray, and that she would be found downtown. To her uncle he offered his services to search in the shadows of the city for the missing girl. To the janitor of Emanuel Church, who caught him at the ferry the day Minnie Williams was murdered, he said he had information that Blanche Lamont was going away and that he littended to intercept her.

It was thought that the output for this year would be much larger than 1894. The preliminary reports and announcements were of a very promising nature and from the figures submitted it was estimated that the crop would exceed that of last year by at least one-third. When Loupe went to Fresno he was surprised to learn that the grape-crop was destroyed by the sudden heat, which bereft the fruit of its sap.

den heat, which bereft the fruit of its sap.

"I surveyed three brandy stills," said Loupe, "and inspected twenty-two of the sweet-wine plants. At present hundreds of thousands of pounds of grapes are being pressed at Fresno by the Wine Growers' Association and something like ninety tons a day by the Bartons. Everything looks promising in that section of the country. Owing to the reduction of the sweet wine output there will not be as large quantities of brandy distilled as was anticipated. A large amount of the grapes formerly used for making raisins are being used for wine this year. There is plenty of work for white men in the vineyards, but they do not seem to want it and the growers are forced to employ Chinese."

POSSESSING A LOTTERY TICKET IS NOT A CRIME.

Opinion of the State Supreme Cour Declaring That the Ordinance Making Such Possession a Misdemeanor is Invalid.

The opinion of the State Supreme The opinion of the state supreme Court in the matter of the application of Wong Hane for a writ of habeas corpus, whereby the city ordinance making it a misdemeanor to have in one's possession a lottery ticket, is declared invalid, is given below in full, like the court of considerable im-but according to the grounds on which the decision is based, no other ordi-nance making the mere possession of a lottery ticket a misdemeanor can be enacted, as the court distinctly says that such possession does not and cannot constitute a crime.

Wong Hane is only one of a number der this ordinance. He was defended by Attorney M. G. Norton, who ap-pealed the case and secured the decision already mentioned. Following is the opinion of the court: In Bank—In the mat matter of the applica tion of Wong Hane for a writ of ha beas corpus. No. 31, Crim.:

The petitioner is held in confinemen by the Chief of Police of the city of Los Angeles, under a warrant of arrest is sued by the Police Judge of that city, upon a complaint charging him with the violation of a city ordinance, in that he did "wilfully and unlawfully have in his possession, such possession being neither innocent nor for a lawful purpose, a certain tool, device and pa-per used and intended to be used in and for the contriving; setting-up, prepar ing and drawing a certain lottery.'

for the contriving, setting-up, preparing and drawing a certain lottery."

The ordinance under which the complaint is made is as follows:

"The Mayor and Council of the city of Los Angeles do ordain as follows:

"Sec. 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to have in his possession, unless it be shown that such possession is innocent or for a lawful purpose, any lottery ticket, or any ticket, certificate, paper or instrument, purporting or representing or understood to be or to represent, any ticket, chance, share or interest in or dependent upon the event of any lottery; or any tool, instrument, stamp, or device, used or intended to be used in or for contriving, preparing, making, writing, printing, stamping, or getting ready for sale or distribution, any lottery ticket or tickets.

"Sec. 2.—Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500, or be imprisoned in the city jail for a term not exceeding six months, orby both such fine and imprisonment."

The effect of this ordinace is to make proof of the mere possession of a lottery ticket a misdemeanor, and to place upon the defendant the burden of snowing that his possession was lawful or lottery ticket.

tery ticket a misdemeanor, and to place upon the defendant the burden of snowing that his possession was lawful or infocent. The mere possession of a lottery ticket does not, however, of necessity involve the possessor in a crime. The ticket may be in possession of the court, or of one of its orficers, to be used as evidence upon the trial of one charged with selling it. It may be in the possession of one who purchased it in a country which recognizes the right to traffic in lottery tickets, and who is merely passing through the city. The Penal Code of this State does not make the purchase of a lottery ticket an offense—the provisions of that code being directed against the selling of such tickets. By the very terms of the ordinance under consideration, it is assumed that the possession of the ticket may be lawful or innocent, and that in such cases the possessor is not guility of a violation of the ordinance. The ordinance, however, throws upon the defendant the burden of proving his innocence, and by its terms, unless he shows that his possession is lawful or innocent, his mere possession of the ticket renders him liable to punishment. If there are any circumstances under which the possession of a lottery ticket may be law-him liable to punishment. If there are any circumstances under which the possession of a lottery ticket may be lawful or innocent, a defendant who is charged with the offense of having such a ticket in his possession is entitled to the presumption of innocence, and cannot be compelled to establish his innocence by affirmative proof. Chauncey M. Depew Says That's How the Great Unwashed Look Upon the Democratic Candidate for a Third Term—Other Politics.

MEGULAR ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORT.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Chauncey M. Depew was interviewed in London by the World correspondent, upon President Cleveland.

"Cleveland," he said, "is as certain to be the Democratic nominee as the national convention is to meet. Whitney could not be elected. He knows it, and he is too shrewd a man to sacrifice himself."

It is not sufficient to say that the prosecution may disregard that clause and itsergerar this clause proved the ordinance and itsergerar this clause proved the ordinance and its possession was not innocent, or for a lawful purpose. The ordinance is to be tested by its own terms. It has declared that the offense, is constitute the offense, the City Council has industriously provided that the offense is established, unless the possession is shown to be with an innocent purpose. This is a qualification and is of necessity to be established by the defendant, since, if it were shown that such possession with a criminal purpose should constitute the offense, the City Council has industriously provided that the offense is established, unless the possession is shown to be with an innocent purpose. The ordinance is to be tested by its own terms. It has declared that the offense is constitute the offense, the City Council has industriously provided that the offense, the City Council has industriously provided that the offense, the City Council has industriously provided that the offense, the City Council has industriously provided that the offense is established, unless the possession with a criminal purpose should be adversed by the defendant, or for a lawful purpose. The ordinance is to be stood the visual purpose. The ordinance is to be shown that such possession with a criminal purpose stablished in the offense is to be stablished. Unless the possession with a criminal purpose stablished in the offense is to be

Nor can this clause in the ordinance be disregarded as being unconstitutional, and effect be given to the first part alone. The provisions of the ordinance are to be considered as a whole, and it is not to be assumed that the City Council would have adopted the first clause without enacting the condition thereto. The connection of the two clauses by the conjunction "unless" shows that they are to be taken together and that the first clause does not by itself express the legislative will not by itself express the legislative will of the Council. It is well established that a statute may be in part constituthat a statute may be in part constitutional and in part unconstitutional, and if the parts are wholly independent of each other, that which is constitutional may stand, while that which is unconstitutional will be rejected; but, as was said in Poindexter vs. Greenhow, (114 U.-S. 303:) "These are cases where the parts are so distinctly separable that each can stand alone, and where the court is able to see and to declare that the intention of the Legislature was that the part pronounced valid should be enforcible, even though the other part should fall. To hold otherwise would be to substitute for the law intended by the Legislature one they may never have been willing by itself to enact."

The same court also said in Spraigue vs. Thompson, (118 U. S. 94.) where it was sought to apply the rule to certain illegal exceptions in a statute of the State of Georgia: "The insuperable difficulty, with the application of that principle of construction to the present instance is that by rejecting the exceptions intended by the Legislature of Georgia, the statute is made to enact what confessedly the Legislature never meant. It forces upon the statute a positive operation beyond the legislative intent, and beyond what any one can say it would have enacted in view of the illegality of the exceptions." (See also, Cooley's Const. Lim. pp. 209-212; Warren vs. Charlestown, 2 Gray 84.)

As we can consider the ordinance only in the form in which it has been enacted, we must hold that it did not The same court also said in Spraigue

A COMMITTEE OF THIRTY WILL

Representatives of the Three Trade Organizations Struggle with the Carnival Question—A Letter from W. C. Patterson on Organization.

in accordance with this that the next flesta will be in charge of the three trade organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Trade, and the Merchants' Association. Furthermore, at the joint meeting of the directors of Merchants' Association. Furthermore, at the joint meeting of the directors of the three bodies held last evening at the Chamber of Commerce it was decided to intrust the fiesta to a committee of thirty—ten appointed by the head of each organization. This committee will have full power to act.

J. O. Koepfli, president of the Merchants' Association, called the meeting to order. Charles Forman was elected chairman and Gregory Perkins, Jr., secretary. W. C. Patterson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was unavoldably absent. Mr. Perkins read a letter from Mr. Patterson, embodying his views on fiesta management. The letter is as follows:

LOS ANGELES (Cal.,) Sept. 6, 1895.

To the chairman of the joint meeting of the directors of the Merchants' Association, Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce—Dear Sir: I regret that a previous engagement which I could not break prevents my attendance at the meeting tonight, but as the presiding officer of one of the organizations to which the fiesta is committed, and as a citizen having the best interests of the undertaking at heart, I beg to offer a few opinions as to the method of managing next year's fiesta for what they may be worth, and in the hope that this letter may not be thought an obtrusive contribution to the discussion.

At the last gathering of the commercial executives of the pressed my helief

At the last gathering of the commer-cial associations I expressed my belief that this letter may not be thought an obtrusive contribution to the discussion.

At the last gathering of the commercial associations I expressed my belief that the fiesta did not need a directorgeneral, and could be more quietly and easily managed by a small committee of three to five business men—one of whom, the secretary—should be an active executive officer of the enterprise. My friend, Mr. Meyberg, does not agree with me in this, and his opinion is entitled to great weight, owing to the success with which he has managed previous flestas.

Other public work, however, has been done in this city besides and before the flestas, and it has been successfully done without investing any one person with absolute and exclusive authority. Of course, great care must be exercised in the selection of the three or five people who are to have the active management. It will not do to jump at them off-hand, and for that reason I would recommend that they be not chosen at any public meeting, where the qualifications of various people and their capacity to work well together, cannot be frankly canvassed. A larger committee than five would be unwieldly and awkward, but in order to interest the largest possible number of people there should be an advisory body of from twenty to thirty. I do not think it would be wise to make this larger committee up directly from our combined boards, as we, or most of us, are already too much involved in public work. This larger committee could, itself, be enlarged by the formation of a number of sub-committee, of which members of the advisory board could be made chairmen. In this way one hundred and fifty to two hundred people might be drawn into the undertaking—the more the better.

Let the general advisory board be made the unit, so to speak, from which you can figure to both the larger and the smaller bodies. Thus, suppose it is decided tonight that this advisory board consists of thirty people, ten to be appointed from each body, or by each body, as some may be appointed from the people it would probably make the original organization too big and cumbersome were this attempted. In my judgment the active management had better be restricted to the three commercial bodies. Later on I see no reason why we may not call upon all the various associations to help in the various departments of the work.

I consider the inauguration and successful conclusion of the fiesta of '96 of vital interest to the city of Los Angeles and its environs. I therefore implore those who may be present at the meeting tonight to give the occasion the benefit of their most cool and deliberate judgment.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES, Los Angeles, Sept. 6, 1895.
PREJUDICE AGAINST BANKS. A correspondent of the San Francisco Examiner recently sent that paper a vigorous communication assailing banks, orous communication assailing banks, especially banks of issue.

The correspondent repeats a palpably mythical story about a secret convention of bankers in 1893, which issued a secret circular calling upon banks everywhere to contract their loans and circulation in order to make money scarce, with a view of forcing the repeal of the Sherman act and the 'ssue of $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 of new government bonds.

Commenting on this letter the Examiner says:

commenting on this letter the Examiner says:

"As a matter of fact, most bankers do not favor note issues on bonded security. There is too little profit in it. The business was profitable in the times to which our correspondent refers, when bonds bearing high interest could be bought with depreciated greenbacks, but all that was long ago. When a bank buys government bonds now it has to pay a premium for them in gold coin or its equivalent, and the rate of interest is low. Consequently most bankers now advocate the abolition of the bond requirement, and the substitution of some form of safety fund as a basis of note-issues.

"A bank note is not money, but a credit substitute for money. The more of such substitutes we can have consistently with safety, the better for the community. When a man runs an account at the grocery store, and then pays his bill at the end of the month by a check which the grocer turns in to the bank in settlement of a note, several transactions have been closed without the use of cash, and this use of credit is equivalent to a healthy expansion of the currency. When one man induces another to accept his note instead of money he does just what the bank of issue does. Nobody is compelled to take the note in either case. The only difference is that the individual's note is usually made payable at some future date, while the bank's note is payable on demand, and if the bank should refuse to redeem its notes in lawful money, at a more in the case.

some future date, while the bank's note is payable on demand, and if the bank should, refuse to redeem its notes in lawful money at a moment's notice, its doors could be closed.

"The only reason why any restriction at all should be placed on the issue of circulating notes by anybody and everybody is that of safety. Ignorant people must be guarded against imposition by people who would issue paper without the intention or the ability to redeem it. With this restriction, the more note circulation we have the better.

COMMERCIAL. CALIFORNIA FRUIT IN LONDON. The ninth shipment of California fruit for London left a few days ago. The

The ninth shipment of California fruit for London left a few days ago. The previous shipments were not particularly remunerative to the producers, but they have done fauch in bringing California fruit to the attention of the people of England, and it may be hoped that with increased knowledge of the best means of packing and shipping, a good and profitable business may be built up. One encouraging feature is that at recent sales American fruit has brought more money than French fruit in London.

Our fruit-growers have much to learn on the question of shipping their fruit. First, it would seem that small packages are in favor in the London market, since hair-cases bring better prices, proportionately, than whole cases; and second, the most extreme care must be taken in packing the fruit in order that it may reach the London market in good condition. For fruit to cross a continent and an ocean and reach England in perfect shape it is obvious that it must be prepared for shipment with all the skill the shipper can command. Everything must be done to provide against its being bruised, for the process of decay is irresistible after the outer covering of the fruit is once broken.

ate years the system of purchasing furniture and other goods on the install-ment plan has become an important ment plan has become an important pranch of retail business. When prop-rly conducted the plan is a good one, is it enables persons in receipt of regu-ar wages to surround themselves with omforts when it would often be diffi-ult for them to do so if they were oreed to pay cash. It also leads to conomy, as when a person here. orded to pay cash. It also leads to economy, as when a person has made, the first installment on a purchase he will generally try to keep up the subsequent payments, whereas otherwise he might be tempted to expend the money for things that are not absolutely necessary.

There are, however, some abuses that have crept into this system, especially in the large cities of the East, and it is time that they should be remedied. An interesting case was tried recently in Chicago, which is of interest to all who are engaged in selling goods on the installment plan. A Mrs. Foster Washburne brought suit against a firm engaged in selling furniture on this plan. Mrs. Washburne visited a certain furniture store engaged in that line of sales, and offered to purchase a bedroom set on time payments. She selected goods valued at $23, and made a cash deposit of $7, with the understanding that the balance should be paid in installments of $5 per month. At this point the concern presented her with one of the usual printed contracts under which the installment houses reserve the right to selse, without further notice, purchased goods if payment is not made on the day designated. Mrs. Washburne refused to sign this contract, and demanded the return of her deposit. The firm declined to refund, and she brought suit, and it is said that the installment concerns will take an appeal from the judgment which was rendered in her favor.

It is said that Mrs. Washburne and her associates intend to obtain legislation to correct the evil she exposed. In this connection it is suggested that the code commission now at work on the revision of the California codes, might do well to give the matter careful attention. ssary. There are, however, some abus

CHEAP COAL. It looks as if California, instead of being a State where fuel is very expensive, and manufacturing difficult, would soon be in the front rank of States which enjoy cheap fuel. difficult, would soon be in the front rank of States which enjoy cheap fuel. Apart from the rapidly developing oil industry, there are a dozen large schemes on foot for the development of electric power from water in the mountains. This, apparently, is not very encouraging to coal producers, yet a big enterprise is being developed in the central part of the State for the supply of cheap coal to that section. For some time past work has been going on quietly on a standard-gauge railroad from the city of Stockton to coal mines at Corral Hollow, which are located about forty-eight miles from that city, in Alameda and San Joaquin counties. There are already over ten thousand feet of tunnels and cross cuts and the owners are now preparing to take out coal. The amount in sight has been estimated at sixty million tons. The product of the mine is described as a glossy black coal, containing no sulphur. From twelve to fifteen hundred men will be put to work as soon as mining begins, with which force it is said that about fifteen hundred tons can be extracted daily, which will be sold at from 34 to 34.50 per ton. This is likely to exclude Oregon, British Columbia, Australian and other coal in a territory that consumes about five thousand tons a day.

With coal at $4.50 a ton, petroleum at the equivalent of $3 a ton for coal, and electric power at a still lower figure, California should seen come to the front as a manufacturing State.

SUNFLOWER OIL. Southern Cali-SUNFLOWER OIL. Southern Cali-fornia appears to be destined to assume a leading position as a producer of oil of many varieties. We have the only olive oil factories in the United States. Excellent castor oil has been made from Excellent castor oil has been made from the plant which grows so vigorously in this section. There was formerly a fac-tory for the production of this oil at Downey, and it is now made on a lim-ited scale in this city. The latest in the line of oil manufacturing on this Coast, and one which might apparently be profitably introduced in this section, is sunflower oil, concerning which the following information was given to a Tacoma paper by Edward A. Major, an Indiana capitalist, who recently arrived from an extended trip in the Spokane country. Mr. Major appears to be ignorant of the fact that the growing of sunflowers for the seed and the manufacture of oil is a very important industry in some parts of Europe, notably in Russia, whence a large amount of the "pure olive oil" consumed in this country is derived. The interview is as follows:

"There was a new concern recently started over there that attracted my attention, and I guess it will prove a novel scheme to you, too. A company has been organized and incorporated, and I believe has its plant already in operation, that manufactures soap, the stock of which is sunflower seeds.

"You needn't smile." continued the Indiana speculator, "I'm telling you nothing but the truth. I do not recollect the name of the new concern, but I examined into the business and think so much of the scheme that I am going to try and start the same kind of a concern in Southern Indiana when I get back home, for I believe the sunflower can be cultivated there as well as in the Spokane plant is much the same as any other soap maufactry, excepting an addition of a lot of simple machinery for extracting the oil from the sunflower seeds. This oil, when refined and ready for use for making soap, is valued at about 31 a pound, and is said to make the creme de la creme of tollet soaps. I became much interested in the idea and made careful inquiries about the business, which shows that the cultivation of sunflowers can be made to pay better than grain. The average yield to the acre, if properly attended to, will be about twenty-five hundred pounds. Of course, this means gross weight, stalk and all, and there is much was

Bradstreet's Review.

Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that favorable crop reports from nearly all directions and the continuance of the boom in steel and fron continues to characterize the general trade situation. Latest advices as to the corn crop have replaced anxiety with confidence in the larger estimated size of that crop and satisfaction with the outlook for trade this autumn. Harvesting and threshing are interfering with business a little in the spring-wheat country. Duluth, Minneapolis and St. Paul jobbers in general lines are pushing for new business. In South Dakota and Washington farmers show no disposition to zell their grain. California reports perfect weather for harvesting. The other side to the crop outlook is found in Texas, where worms are said to have seriously damaged cotton in some sections. Iron and steel prices have advanced from 1.0922.09, and the demand at this time continues in excess of the output. All finished products are beginning to show the effects of higher prices for raw iron and steel mills have orders to keep them busy into 1896, and refuse to name prices for a future delivery. Apparently every mill and furnace in the country is at work, and the fiscal year will probably break the record of production. Actual gains in the volume of general trade this week are recorded at Seattle and Tacoma and the Pacific Coast, St. Louis and Kansas City in the West, Duluth and St. Paul, Chattanoga, Augusta, Atlanta and Memphis.

Bradstreet's stock review will say tomorrow that up to last Tuesday the market continued to advance and to broaden in a remarkable manner, and, though attention seemed to pass from one group of stocks to another, there was evidence that the professional manipulation which at present does duty for speculative leadership in Wall street attracted outside buying power sufficient to maintain the bullish temper. The high level at which exchange holds and the continuance of gold exports, with continues celling from London, censtituted, however, a serious o

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The stock market today showed a considerable falling off in point of activity as compared with Thursday, but the distribution of business was relatively good. Fractionally higher quotations were made on American securities on the London market, which induced firmness at the opening here, and fractional advances occurred in the initial dealings. The market, however, developed weakness at an early stage, owing to expectations of large exports of gold which had been foreshadowed on the previous day. In the reaction the Coalers and Grangors were the chief sufferers in the active list. After mid-day the tone of the general market strengthened, but in the late speculation dealings were irregular and duil. Bonds were duil. The total sales amounted to $2,750,000. Atchison... 21% N. TRUSTS AND WAGES.

Frederick H. Cooke, writing in the Social Economist for September on the subject of "Trusts and Wages," adonces some ideas not in accord with the opinions of most writers on this and kindred themes. He takes the position that "the existence of trusts (socalled) tends to increase wages, real and nominal, as well as to prevent and cure industrial depression." Reasoning from these premises, he draws the conclusion that the great latter-day combinations of capital, by which production on a large scale has been sub stituted for production on a small scale, have, in fact, been of great benefit to the working-classes rather than an in-

This view is so different from the popular notion that it is at least decidedly interesting. That Cooke has proved his case in the article referred to is by no means apparent. But his contention furnishes food for thought. There are two sides to the shield. The public has heretofore accepted, almost without a dissenting voice, the dictum that the modern trust is a monstrous evil. a menace to civil government, and a danger to civilization itself. idea has been industriously fostered by demagogues and charlatans, for political or selfish purposes, until all corwith some degree of distrust, and in numerous cases with abhorrence, by a this feeling of distrust and abhorrence has grown hatred on the part of employees for employers. Strikes, boycotts and riots have appeared as the bitter fruits of these industrial antagon-

It is undeniable that in many case the immediate and visible results of arge combinations of capital have been antagonistic to the public good. But Mr. Cooke's discussion of the subject is road, and deals with general results rather than with immediate effects. His article suggests that the question as to whether the good results do not outweigh the bad is at least debatable The evidence is certainly overwhelming that the operations of trust combinations have largely increased real wages (the purchasing power of wages) by cheapening the cost to the consumer of the necessaries of life, for which wages are expended. The Standard Oil most powerful trust in this country, if not in the world; yet under its operahas greatly declined during the past few years. Mr. Cooke goes so far as to say that "the growth of that much abused 'monopoly,' the Standard Oil Trust, has resulted in an annual savng of more than $100,000,000, perhaps ars of its products." While the figure ed are not at all convincing, the fac these products have steadily de-ed in price does not require proof it is a matter of general public

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Action Deferred Upon the Belt Rail

There was no lack of interesting grist waiting the members of the Board of Public Works yesterday when that body was called to order by Chairman Munson. The various bidders upon the cremation of the city's dead animals whose proposals were considered by the board last week, and deferred for final action until yesterday were present in full force, but received sma satisfaction from the report of the board, who prepared the following rec-ommendation with reference to the matter:

"In the matter of the proposals to dispose of dead animals, recommend that all bids be rejected and the City Clerk instructed to readvertise for bids to dispose of same in the manner satisfactory to the Board of Health and the City Council in other ways than cremation."

mation."
The next question to engage the attention of the board was the following petition, from A. W. Francisco and others:

"The undersigned, owners of property along the line of what is claimed to be Figueroa street between Ninth and Tenth streets respectfully ask that all claims of the city to such street between such points be abandoned, as has been done to all the other portions of such alleged street. The total frontage between said points is 1200 feet, of which your petitioners represent 988 feet." eet."
The discussion of this matter evoked

The discussion of this matter evoked considerable feeling among the parties interested, who were present. Ex-City Attorney McFarland, representing the petitioners, made a fervid address to the board in behalf of his clients who wish the street abandoned. His remarks indicated enthusiastic sincerity, but lost some of their force when Acing Mayor Teed interrupted the ex-City Attorney to remind him that several years ago, when the same proposition was before the Council for adjustment, the then City Attorney argued for the other side of the case and gave a legal opinion for the city, in which it was stated that the property in dispute was by virtue of various causes public property and a public between ous causes public property and a lic highway. In spite of the fact various causes public by the fact that the matter was settled by the Council several years ago, and settled in direct opposition to the wishes of Mr. Francisco, who at the time withdrew his objections, according to the statement of Mr. Teed, the board yesterday prepared the following recommendation in the matter:

will occur when the recommendation of the board comes up for adoption by the Council.

The question of granting the petition of D. J. McGary, for the advertising of an electric-railway franchise in the southeastern portion of the city, and in Boyle Heights, was considered by the board, and Mr. McGary was allowed to speak upon his petition. It developed, however, that there is considerable opposition to the proposed belt line, from parties who doubt the good faith of the promoters of the enterprise, and who do not wish the streets tied up by the granting of a franchise unless assurance is given that the road is to be actually constructed. The members of the board desiring to consider these protests more at length, action in the matter was deferred until the next meeting of the board.

The proper petition of N. C. Creede and wife was presented, accompanied by the written consent of the mother of the little one, and the necessary decree of adoption was thereupon rendered. Dorothy Taibot Hitt Walker thereby became Edith Dorothy Creede. Edith Scott Waters, the mother of the adopted baby, was herself adopted when quite young by a Mrs. Stone of San Framisco. Mrs. Stone, it will be remembered, married a Capt. Waters, who was the owner of San Miguel Island and was an extensive sheep-raiser. The young woman whose name had changed with that of her adopted mother in time went to San Francisco, where she was trained for the stage. She afterward married John Walker, a son of Mr. Walker, who had been a warm friend of J. W. Mackay. John Walker was a street car conductor. In course of time the Walkers came to Los Angeles, where he found employment. Matters between the young couple did not move as smoothly as they might, and in time the two were divorced.

they might, and in time the two were divorced.

The little girl whose name was by a decree of the court changed yesterday, was born about six months ago, her mother being in the County Hospital at the time. The baby for a time was cared for by a woman who had be-friended the mother after her divorce. This woman became unable to care for the little one any longer, and, this fact becoming public, the attention of the Creedes was attracted to it.

William Enseth Sent to San Quentin for Burglary.

William Enseth, charged with the primes of forgery and burglary respectively, appeared in Department One before Judge Smith yesterday and entered a plea of guilty to the former charge. He was sentenced to San Quentin for three years.

The latter charge against him was dismissed. The forgery to which he pleaded guilty was on a check for $51 which he uttered against the Los Angeles Farming and Milling Company, forging the name of L. A. Redden thereto.

Horace Bell, Esq., appeared before Judge Pierce of San Diego, who was sitting, in Department Two yesterday sitting in Department Two yesterday and was heard in reference to the estate of Miguel Leonis. He asked that he have opportunity to inquire of the executors of the estate, C. R. Lockwood and W. E. de Groot, what had been done with certain portions of funds belonging to the estate. Those two gentlemen were present in response to a citation and T. M. Stewart, their attorney, moved to quash the citation. The motion was granted after a good deal of argument.

THE SUPREME COURT.

There Were Four Opinions Received

There were four opinions received for filing at the office of the Supreme Court yesterday. One of these is in a case in which one Mrs. Tuffree brought suit to quiet title to a tract of land containing 640 acres. The complaint was in the usual form and contained the additional allers that the white the state of the complaint was in the usual form and contained the additional allers that the white the state of the complaint was in the usual form and contained the state of the complaint was in the state of the complaint was in the usual form and contained the state of the complaint was in the complaint was in the usual form and contained the state of the complaint was in the taining 640 acres. The complaint was in the usual form and contained the gdditional allegation that the plaintiff had been in the open, notorious and adverse possession of the tract for more than fifteen years. The answer denied the allegations of the complaint and alleged that by a tripartite indenture executed in 1868 between Abel Stearns and his wife of the first part, Alfred Robinson of the second part, and Samuel Brannan, E. F. Northam, Charles B. Polhemus, Edward Martin and Abel Stearns, parties of the third part, they, Stearns and wife, conveyed to Robinson certain lands including the lands involved. The lands so conveyed were several Mexican grants, containing more than 100,000 acres. The deed was made to Robinson, in trust, to hold possession, and sell and convey upon such terms and in such quantities, as he might see fit, with the consent of the parties of the third part.

The judgment of the lower court in favor of plaintiffs and against the defendant Polhemus is affirmed; the judgment in favor of the defendants other than the defendant Robinson is reversed. The order denying a new trial to the defendant Polhemus and to the plainrendant Polhemus is affirmed; the judgment in favor of the defendants other than the defendant Robinson is reversed. The order denying a new trial to the defendant Polhemus and to the plaintiffs is affirmed.

Another of the decisions is on a case in which the ordinance making it a misdemeanor to have a lottery ticket in possession unless it be shown that such possession is innocent or for a lawful purpose, is declared unconstitutional. This ordinance is one which was enacted by the City Council of this city nearly two years ago. The ordinance has been, to a large degree, effective in suppressing the sale of Chinese lottery tickets.

The Supreme Court has also rendered a decision affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case of Maria A. Scott vs. A. G. Rhodes et al., an action of ejectment to recover possesion of certain land situated in the county of San Diego. The case is one in which the plaintiff alleged that the defendants denied the plaintiffs, alleged ownership and possession and further denied that they ever entered upon or ejected plaintiff from the land described in the complaint or that they ever withheld the possession thereof from the plaintiff. The lower court found "that the plaintiff should take nothing by this action and that the defendants are entitled to judgment for their costs," and entered judgment accordingly. ON TO WHITTIER.

Wayward Prudence Winters Sent

Handsome but wayward Prudence Winters will go to Whittler today, where she will remain until 21 or, in the

in a small adjoining room partially dressed.

When officially questioned yesterday, Prudence stated that she did not indulge in profanity except in rare instances. As for the use of liquor she was not addicted to it, although she had on rare occasions taken beer. If she felt sorry for her waywardness she did not appear to manifest it to any extended degree, as she was by a deputy sheriff led from the courtroom.

The Township Court. The mayhem case in which Dick Woods is charged with inflicting serious injury on the jaw of one George Hopkins, and incidentally displacing two or three teeth, supposedly incisors, on August 11, was called yesterday by Justice Young in the Township Court. It was, however, continued till a later date for trial.

The Wise Examination. A preliminary examination of W.

A preliminary examination of W. S. Wise, charged with perjury, was held before United States Commissioner Van Dyke yesterday. The evidence was submitted and the case taken under advisement for later decision as to whether the defendant shall be descharged or bound over to the grand jury. Wise, it will be remembered, is alleged to have gone as a surety on a government contractor's bond, swearing he was worth a certain amount exempt from liability. He lived at Perris and was afterward sued in the Superior Court of Riverside county. Judgment was obtained against him but the Sheriff could find nothing on which to levy.

Horace L. White has sued Ellen C. Hitchcock, J. N. Hitchcock, Fannie Pot-er and F. B. Potter to foreclose a mort-

A word to the wise ought to be sufficient. And, by the way, the dealers in dirtreal estate—might well afford not to keep their samples on tap in front of their doors; purchasers can be captured much more easily by having the bargains spread out before their eyes on the spots where the soil was made and does business at the old stand.

The Times has frequently called attention to the great importance of es-tablishing manual training schools. The late J. C. Wilmerding of San Franelsco left the munificent sum of $400,000 in trust to the regents of the State University to establish a school of mechanical arts in California. He stated that to teach boys trades by which they can earn a living with their hands with plenty of work and not too much study." An excellent idea, Los Angeles study." An excellent idea. Los Angeles should have an institution of this kind. The only one in existence in Southern California is the Throop University in Pasadena. The public schools might with advantage introduce manual training, and rop some of the higher branches of literature. We are turning out too many young men who have a smattering of science and literature. The rooms of several tourists who were only transient guests at the hotel were plundered. One man lost a pair of trousers and $6 in money; another lost his watch and $2.35 in money, and a lady lost $30 cash. The burglar gained entrance to the rooms by picking the locks while the occupants were asleep. The police were notified, and detectives are working on the case.

All the police officers are reporting daily for extra duty. Yesterday afternoon thirty officers in citizens' clothes were scouring the residence sections of the city on the lookout for hobos and suspicious characters who might have improved the opportunity to break into houses while the families were at the circus.

on visiting and Jamiors presented the following report, which was adopted without discussion:

"Your Committee on Visiting and Janitors recommend that vacancies be declared in the offices of Janitor at Casco-street and Tenth-street schools, and that Mrs. V. R. Sawyer be elected janitor at Casco-street, and Mrs. Doratha Carison be elected janitor of the Tenth-street school."

Secretary Dandy read a communication from the City Council requesting that the board reconsider the action by which the Council was asked to reconsider its action by which the school site at Thirtieth and Norwood was selected. In discussion of this communication it was advised by some of the directors that the Council be asked to change the school on Norwood street from a ten-room to a four-room building. Director Pitman explained, however, that the question of cutting down any of the school buildings would be considered by the Council when the bids for the construction of the buildings are received, and it would, therefore, be in order to defer any recommendations of the sort proposed until that time shall arrive. The matter was then dropped and the communication from the Council was, upon the motion of Director Grubb, ordered filed.

The Teachers' Committee reported, recommending that the teachers in the public schools of the city be assigned to positions for the next year, as specified in the report, which read as follows:

considered Miss Whitney had suffered, there were grave charges of immorality preferred against Rabbi Blum, which were convincing to his mind of Mr. Blum's unfitness for the position assigned him.

Quite a wordy war was precipitated by the insinuations made by Director Garland, in which Directors Pitman, Simonton, Bassett, Fulton and Grubb took an active part. It was at length decided to adopt the report of the Teachers' Committee upon the assignments specified, with the exception of Rabbi Blum's case. A special committee being appointed, composed of Di-ments specified, with the exception of Rabbi Blum's case. A special committiee being appointed, composed of Directors Grubb, Garland and Fulton, to investigate and report upon the charges or insinuations of immorality made against Rabbi Blum.

The Committee upon Course of Study in the High School presented the following report:

"We recommend the adoption of the course of study for the kindergarten, primary and grammar grades as prepared by the Superintendent and deputty.

"We further recommend the adoption of the High School course of study as prepared by the principal, said course to include in addition to the former curriculum a business course shall be taught the first year, the theory of book-keeping, English composition and business forms, commercial geography, commercial arithmetic or algebra and penmanship; the second year, book-keeping, with business practice, political economy, civics, commercial law, physical geography, American history, stenography, typewriting, and mathematics or a modern language."

Action upon this report was deferred until Tuesday evening of next week, as several members of the board wished to inform themselves more fully regarding the changes proposed to be made. The Committee on Music reported recommending the offer of Gardner & Zeliner to rent planos for the kindergarten' schools at prices ranging from $3 to $4 a plano per month. The president of the board was empowered to draw up and sign a contract upon the terms offered by the company.

Great Syndicate Shows

The Great Syndicate Shows and Paris Hippodrome arrived in the city early yesterday morning, and in the afternoon and evening occurred the first two performances. The reputation of the management, together with the oceans of biliboard and other advertising, packed the big tent to overflowing. The tent has a seating capacity of 7000, and yet the acres of canvas could not contain all the people. Hundreds were turned away to try their luck again today.

During the two hours' programme not a single accident nor incident occurred to mar the pleasure of the audience or the faithful fulfillment of every feat advertised. Of course, everybody wanted to see Victoris, the performing tigress, and she and her trainer, James McElroy. a former Los Angeles boy, were greated with boars of applause upon their appearance. The September meeting of the board of managers for the Young Women's Christian Association was largely attended. Reports of the secretary and committees were read and accepted. The general secretary reported a total membership of 701 and gave a resume of her recent trip East. She spoke of the pleasure and profit found at the Moody school in Chicago, the late general conferences of college and city young women's Christian associations, where California had four representatives, among them Miss Emma Reeder, our Coast secretary. The Finance Committee reported that serious needs in the work call for immediate action. More room must be used, which necessitates a larger rent. Furnishings for these rooms, and a re-set of the entire work calls for unusual expense. The committee presented, an earnest pleafor aid from all friends of the association.

yet vicious-looking tigress took her treatment kindly, however, and did her little turn, with marked gracefulness. The Martell family of trick bicyclists, which consists of Edward Martell, his wife and two daughters, are certainly the most wonderful performers in their line that have ever visited this city. Their seemingly impossible tricks on the bicycle and on their one-wheel machines were accomplished with ease and skill. Francis Read, the youth who turns back somersaults on a galloping horse, ridden bareback, elicited considerable well-merited applause. This lad is one of the youngest bareback riders in the world.

Miss Mille Murray won for herself much favor as an equestrienne. Ronelli and Barstow, the trapeze artists, not only executed the many ordinary mid-air feats, but brought forth many new features.

The iron-jawed lady, Minnetta, thrilled the audience during her rapid descent from the apex of the tent on a wire, suspended only by her teeth, which clinched a strip of leather. The clever Japanese with their inimitable balancing acts, were greeted with prolonged applause.

Previous to entering the circus proper, the vast audience wandered around the managerie, where some of the finest specimens of wild beasts were to be viewed. The baby kangaroo, ensooned in its mother's pouch, attracted the greatest attention. The baby is a remarkably bright and healthy little fellow, and doubtless appreciates the kindly treatment he receives from all quarters. The lions, tigers, cougars and panthers, together with the drove of Shetland ponies, one of which is said to be the smallest in the world, and numerous other pet or ferocious animals, permitted the audience to enjoy a profitable hour in this department. We will send free, securely sealed, a little book explaining our methods, in which any one can plainly understand the causes, and why our method of treatment without stomach-drugging, cannot fail to cure every form of Weakness.

From the Committee on Outing the board considered offers of land for the location of a summer home at the beach from Ocean Park and Terminal Island. The generous offers of the Terminal Railway Company of four lots at Terminal Island for the above purpose was accepted by the board. The frequent efforts of the Terminal Railway Company during the summer in providing excursions to this point that the members of the board and association might investigate the proposed outing place have been most enjoyable.

Judge Silent appeared before the board and offered his aid for the erection of a house when the proper time for doing so should arrive. NEWS OF CYCLING.

LOS ANGELES TO RIVERSIDE BY WHEEL ILLUSTRATED.

Side Century Course—Another Bi-cycle Club—Riverside News—The Big Road Race.

For those who wish a long bicycle ride the run to Riverside is recommended. Just at this time of the year, thanks to the neglect of the public roads, much sand or soft surface will

Angeles to Riverside an easy run of five hours, but I presume those who are not hardened for rough-road riding would prefer to take all day and eat the noonday meal at Pomona.

There are two routes from Los Angeles or Pasadena to the eastern towns, i. e. Riverside, Redlands, San Bernarding, Ontario and Pomona

The road most used from this city is the southern route through El Monte out North Main street, which soon becomes Alhambra avenue, and passes on the right-hand side of East Lake

Beyond the powder-houses, past Shorb Station to Savannah Park, the road is now much cut up by heavy teaming narrow tires, From Savannah to en narrow tires, From Savannah to Ei Monte a side path can be used part of the way. Beyond the long bridge, the cand is very deep, but plenty of straw has been put on top so it is fairly passable. Before reaching Puente there is some good new road.

Leaving Puente the touring wheelmen are soon in the Puente Hills, where the grades may make some prefer walking is reached a good side path along, is again encountered, and Spadra is soon reached.

THE NORTHERN ROUTE. At present the northern route is much the better this side of Pomona, much the better this side of Pomona, except between Duarte and Azusa.

If you wish to start from Los Angeles and take the northern route the shortest way is to cut across to Lamanda Park, from East Lake Park through Alhambra, San Gabriel and East San Gabriel. A longer route is through Pasadena and out East Colorado street to Lamanda Park.

This side of Monrovia there are two washes that are sandy, but these compel little walking.

From Monrovia to a mile or more beyond Duarte the road is excellent, then there are about four miles of sand and gravel through the San Gabriel River bottom with two fords to cross in wet bottom with two fords to cross in wet weather. Many wheelmen take the train from Duarie to Azusa and thus avoid this five miles, at a cost of 10 cents.

From Azusa through San Dimas and Lordsburg to Pomona is an excellent road, in fact there are a number of parallel roads equally good.

Nearly everybody rides from Pomona to Riverside by the southern route through Rincon and South Riverside.

Leaving Pomona, Geary svenue, which is a continuance of the road from Lordsburg, is found sandy at this time of the year for a mile or more. time of the year for a mile or more, then the road is fairly good all the way to the Santa Ana River, through

Two tree-bordered bridges make the crossing of the Santa Ana River safe at all times. The Santa Ana Canyon, with its perpetual breeze, opens right here, in sight of Rincon, and keeps the roads all the way to South Riverside swept as clean as a floor.

Turning to the right, on the hill just beyond Rincon, you will find your self upon the mesa, with its hard, smooth road, all the way to the Circular drive, which surrounds South

The hundred-mile course, which the East Side Cycling Club uses for its annual century run, is over this southern route to South Riverside, and return. From South Riverside to Magnolia avenue and Alvord, the road runs through a big wash and river bottom, and then through some small hills. A little walking is necessary, but the road soon becomes excellent, and seems to improve every mile.

At Arlington, the turning-point of the annual Riverside road race, is reached, and the remaining seven miles is over the thirteen-mile course into Riverside.

Pomona is about midway between Los Angeles and Riverside, and a good place to rest or stop for a noonday meal.

Ontario is six miles from Pomona, and Central avenue starts near there and runs through Chino to the main road, in front of Gird's gate, and farm buildings on the big Chino ranch. If the northern route is taken, it would be a good plan to take the Santa Fe to Azusa. Then the rest of the way would be over the best roads. would be over the best roads. CHARLES FULLER GATES.

New Bicycle Club.

New Bieyele Club.

Since the badly-frosted drama "Around the World on a Bieyele," was produced under the auspices of the Los Angeles Wheelmen, there has been some feeling among members of this club, and finally it was thought best by part of the members to propose a new club. Thursday evening members of the Los Angeles Wheelmen and the Athletic Club met at the Hollenbeck Hotel with a few friends and organized as the Citrus Wheelmen.

The officers were chosen as follows: J. A. Kelly, president; Dr. W. F. Kennedy, vice-president; Ford Smith, secretary; A. H. Braley, treasurer; H. Glassell, captain; John Brink, M. A. Baker and C. J. Ellis, directors. The other members of the new club are Will Knippenberg, C. E. Patterson, Morris Cook, C. W. Chase, S. P. Hunt, J. E. Cook, P. W. Dooner, J. T. Griffith, D. O. Anderson and F. Eaton. This will make seven local bleycle clubs, the others being the Los Angeles Wheelmen, East Side Cycling Club, Roamers Road Club, South Side Cycling Club, Times Bleycle Club, and the Los Angeles Road Club, besides several partly organized.

The bicycle tournament at Coronado track, San Diego, this afternoon, will be one of the best meets of the year, even though the prizes are small. Better time will probably be made than at the big national circuit races at Buffalo, N. Y., last Thursday. Ulbricht, McCrea, Whitman, the Roamers' team and several other good ones will take part this afternoon, while the track is a good one.

mile lap race, class A; half-mile, one mile and two miles, class B.

Riverside Road Race.

Riverside Road Race.

There were sixty-one entries for the thirteen-mile handicap road-race at Riverside early this week and probably a third more have been received since. Capt. Conning of the Riverside Wheelmen is in charge of the road-race, assisted by S. J. Castleman and J. A. Simms. The race will start about 9 o'clock and the special wheelmen's trains leaving here at 7 o'clock Monday will reach Riverside in time to see the start of the road-race. The finish will be the same as the starting point.

Times Bieyele Club.

The Times Bicycle Club will have a road run to Glendale Monday afternoor road run to Glendale Monday afternoon to eat watermelons with W. S. Livingood, one of its enthusiastic members. The club will be represented at Riverside races and the meeting of the Associated Clubs on the same day.

The Bloomer Girl. The Ladies' Annex of the Riverside Wheelmen will keep open house on Monday at the parlors of Armory Hall, Riverside. All visiting women riders are expected to visit there and make themselves at home. Their escorts will be welcome, too.

Associated Cycling Clubs. The Associated Cycling Clubs of Southern California holds its first formal meeting and election of officers at Odd fellows Hall, Riverside, at 11 o'clock Monday, or right after the annual road-race is run. Delegates from all clubs in this half of the State will be present and form the first board of governors of the Associated Clubs.

V. heel Notes.

Emil Ulbricht passed through the city yesterday on his way to San Diego from the northern circuit. He reports the circuit race meets a string of successes.

cuit race meets a string of successes.

The Roamers', Road Club sent a racing team to San Diego yesterday and Sunday the team goes on to Riverside.

The races at Riverside are as follows:
Mile novice, mile open, mile handicap and two-mile lap race Class A, mile open and two-mile lap race class B.

The Riverside track races will be started Monday afternoon promptly at 1:30 on account of the large list of entries.

started Monday afternoon promptly at 1:30 on account of the large list of entries.

The following officers have been chosen for the Riverside meet: Chiefmarshal, William G. Polcene; judges, W. A. Correll, Robert Gray and James Patterson; referee, Stanley J. Castleman; umpires, F. L. Fernald, Ray Jessup, Guy Packard and T. R. Ford; scorers, I. S. Logan and Alex Varga; timers, H. T. Hays, John W. A. Off and C. O. Alkire; starter, W. E. Conning; clerk of course, George W. Cobb.

San Jacinto will be represented in the road-race, novice race and Class A events September 9, by Arthur Wright. All the cracks in the State seem to be looking toward Riverside. Among these can be mantioned Burke, Castleman, McCrea, Ulbricht, Lacy, Schmidt, Hatton, Bundy, Cox, Wasson, Slater and a score of others. Most of those mentioned will start scratch in the road-race.

Several of those entered in the road-race are devoting time and close attention to training, and it will not be their fault if Riverside is not covered with the reflected glory, on Monday, from one of these native sons. A. C. Willard has been in training closely for three weeks past, in charge of Sam Tyson of Riverside. It is no longer a secret that Mr. Willard is the dark horse. Entries for Riverside races are reported as follows: Novice 24, mile open, class B, 17; two-mile lap race, class B, 14; mile, class A, 17; mile handicap, class A, 41; two-mile lap, class A, 22.

HE PLAYED ROBBER.

YOUNG VADIM DEMENS OF LOS AN-GELES IN SERIOUS TROUBLE.

He Held Up Sundry Business Mer of Cucamonga at the Point of a Revolver—Has Made a Confession

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 6 .- (Special Dispatch.) Last evening Special Officer F. E. Pourade of the Southern California Railroad lodged in jail Vadim Demens, a young man scarcely twenty years of age and the son of a wealthy man who recently removed from Los Angeles to Ioamosa. He is charged with having attempted to hold monga. The arrest was made in Los Angeles, and, while the evidence against Demens has not been made public, the officer who worked up the case says he has a complete chain of facts which will

officer who worked up the case says he has a complete chain of facts which will be ample to convict the prisoner.

Saturday evening the station agent at North Cucamonga was held up, although the would-be robber was frightened away before anything had been taken. The agent, D. L. Kilgore, was called to the door of his office about 9:30 o'clock that night, and, as he opened the door and stepped outside, he was confronted by a masked robber, holding a big revolver at the agent's head, and ordering him to throw up his hands.

Kilgore was so badly frightened that, instead of doing so, he turned and ran, meantime yelling at the top of his voice. The robber fired as the agent turned, the bullet whizzing past the agent's head and going through a window. The robber himself was frightened at the outery and disappeared in the darkness. Word was at once telegraphed to Pourade, who went to Cucamonga Sunday morning, looked over the ground carefully, learned what he could shout the attack, and returned to this city.

Tuesday morning he received another dispatch from Cucamonga, informing him that a storekeeper five miles north of Cucamonga had been held up, and that he had been badly beaten by the robber. Pourade hastened to the scene, and at once made up his mind that the hold-up was attempted by the same individual who had visited the station agent, and that he was some one won lived in the vicinity.

The storekeeper, whose name is Johns, was awakened about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, by some one pounding at the back door of his store, calling upon him to get up and sell some groceries. John at once got up, and, after hastily dressing, went to the back door of his store, calling upon him to get up and sell some groceries. John at once got up, and, after hastily dressing so close to Johns's face that the powder burned it. But instead of throwing up his hands, Johns fell forward, and the robber grappled with him, beating him over the head with a revolver, and inflicting some very serious injuries. Again he was frightened away, when Special Officer Pourade arrived, Johns was able to tell the story and give a fairly accurate description of his assailant, and, after working systematically on the case for a day, Pourade found that everything pointed to Demens being the man wanted, and determined to arrest him. He found that Demens had gone to Pasadena, and at once started on the trail, succeeding in Scatting him in Los Angeles.

staying, but he was not at the house when the officer called, and Pourade hunted up John C. King yesterday morning and together they "piped off" the house all day, and were rewarded about 4 o'clock by Demens putting in an appearance. As, he entered the house he was placed under arrest, and brought to this city last night by Pourade.

This morning that officer-went before Judge Knox and swore out a complaint, charging Demens with assault to commit robbery, and Demens was arraigned on that charge.

He is a strapping young fellow, over 6 feet tall, and claims to be only 18 years of age. He realizes that he is arrested on a very serious charge, and has sent word to his father, and the trial will, no doubt, be a bitterly-contested one, Demens pere is wealthy, and has been one of the prominent capitallists of Los Angeles. His place at North Cucamonga is one of the best ranches in the western part of the county, and his residence is described as palatial.

This afternoon young Demens made a full confession of both crimes, and the confession was sworn to, and is in the hands of the District Attorney.

IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

The first meeting of El Club Espanol since last June was held last evening at the residence of Mrs. Stoddart on West Fifth street. Mr. Howard, the president of the club, and Miss Stevens, the sec-retary, were among those present. The meeting was devoted principally to business; plans for the winter were dis-cussed and it was decided to change the place of meeting to the Y. M. C. A. Hall, which is very suitable for the en-tertainments given by the club. The meetings will be held the first and third Friday of each month. AN ANNIVERSARY.

Crops and Markets.

The weather during the past week has been remarkably cool, in fact the entire season so far has been noteworthy for the low temperature which has prevailed. In some sections along the coast it appears doubtful whether the second crop of figs will mature, owing to the lack of sufficient sunshine.

The market for general produce has been fairly good. There is no note worthy change in prices of fresh fruits For dried fruits the prices offered by buyers do not come up to the ideas of the holders and little business has been done. From the northern part of the State and from the East it is reported that the demand for dried fruits is quite nominal. In spite of the small crop apricots are neglected. Peaches are plentiful, but the demand is small. Dried pears have not been in the market in any quantity yet. Of nectarines the supply is light. The prune harvest is now fairly on recent report from the Santa Clara Valley states that indications point to a yield in excess of early estimates. The Santa Clara Valley will produce more prunes than last season by severa million pounds, while the balance of the State will give a fair average. The price fixed by the Santa Clara county exchange is 41/2 cents for the four sizes

prune situation in that valley:

"The prune crop in many cases is turning out to be far larger than was expected. As the fruit ripened it increased in size in a wonderful manner, and trees that were estimated to have but fifty or sixty pounds upon them are yielding a hundred pounds and even more. Santa Clara county prunes, therefore, will be extra large and fine this year, and will well deserve anything that can be said of them in the way of advertising the county by the Board of Trade or anybody else. Incidentally, too, it should be stated that the growers are getting their money about as soon as they get their fruit off the trees, and this means the payment of debts, the purchase of supplies, the making of many improvements and general activity and prosperity in all ment of debts, the purchase of supplies the making of many inprovements and general activity and prosperity in al lines of business."

walnut crop promises to be fairly good one in this section. It is estimated at from 2000 to 2300 tons. The freight rate this year will be $1.30 per cental instead of $1.75 which was the rate last year., Butter has been steady in price and it is not expected that there will be any important change for some time to There is a considerable amount of butter in cold storage in the State

Cost of Irrigation. The last report of the Geological Sur vey places the average first cost of water for irrigation throughout the Western States at $8.15 per acre, while its value wherever the right can be transferred without land is $26. The interesting figures on this subject ing interesting figures on this subject:

"Applying these figures to the total areage as ascertained by the last census, the total first cost of irrigating the lands from which crops were obtained in 1889 was $25,611,000, and the total value of the water right was $94,412,000, the increase of value being $64,801,000, or 218.87 per cent. of the investment. The latter sum may be taken as representing the value of the supply utilized. The average annual expense of maintaining the water supply was $1.07 per acre, or an aggregate of $3,794,000, this being required in keeping the canals and ditches in repair and free from sediment. The estimated first cost of irrigated lands from which crops were obtained in 1889 was $77,490,000, and their present value, including improvements, $296,850,000, showing an increased value of $219,360,000, or 282,88 per cent. of the investment in the land, not taking into consideration the water. The value of $219,380,000, or 283,08 per cent. of the investment in the land, not taking into consideration the water. The average value of the crops raised was $14.89 per acre, or a total of $53,057,000. These figures have been introduced to exhibit the cost and value of irrigation in the arid regions. The value of the unutilized water supply can scarcely be estimated until more accurate information is obtained concerning the total amount of water and the acreage that it can be made to cover. By making certain assumptions, however, a rough estimate can be arrived at. Taking the average first cost of water at $8.15 per acre, and its present value at $25 per acre, and its present value at $25 per acre, the difference, $17.85, may be assumed as the value of the water as it flows in the stream. If one cubic foot per second will water 100 acres, then the value of one second foot is $1785. Taking the figures given as the total quantity of water probably available, vir. 260,000 second feet, the total value of this water is $642,600,000. These figures obviously have no claim to accuracy, but merely indicate that. calculated on the most conservative basis, the water supply of the arid calculated on the most conservative basis, the water supply of the arid country must be ranked among the most important among its undeveloped

Longevity of Fruit Trees in Call

The age up to which fruit trees will continue to be profitable is a question that has not been much discussed in this State, owing to the youth of most of the orchards, which puts the question off into the future. In course of time, however, it will become an interesting this State, as elsewhere.

At a recent meeting of the California tate Horticultural Society, a special committee which had been appointed to investigate this subject made an interesting report. Among other things the committee reported that the apple, pear and cherry tree, with ordinary care and under favorable conditions, will outlive the average man, and bear intiful, if not profitable, crops all

The life of the peach on seedling stock The life of the peach on seedling stock erages from 25 to 30 years, according soil and conditions. At this age, it generally conceded that the wood of e peach tree becomes brittle, and the see weak and unprofitable, going into decline or breaking down. Like all her fruit trees the peach, in order survive to a good old age and bear inual crops, must receive proper treatbrittle quality of the peach when old. Under favorable conditions, the plum tree has been able to attain an average age of 30 years, bearing one year with another an average crop, and respond izers and the needed irrigation.

It is well established that apple, pear and cherry trees continue to bear fruit and to prove profitable to a great age

During the past couple of years there has been some talk about overdoing the prune industry, as in the case of other branches of the agricultural in dustry. It appears that those who make the most complaint on this subject are those who do not run their orchards on a businesslike basis. Ac cording to a northern exchange, the Santa Clara Index, F. W. Burkholder, who owns a fifty-acre fruit farm on Saratoga avenue, adjoining the Quito ranch, is of the opinion that prune-raising is a very fair industry. He has twenty-seven acres in prunes, and the yield this year is of such excellent quality and size that he has been offered more from the dried product than he would from the green fruit at that fig-He estimates that there are 300 tons of fruit in the twenty-seven acres, which, at the figure offered, $32.50 per ton, would amount to $9750. This sum from twenty-seven acres is doing quite well. The balance of his fifty acres is in apricots, of which he has forty-five tons this year. Last year his yield of $32.50 per ton for the entire crop. He refused the offer, however, as he dried all his own fruit, and expects to realize apricots was 125 tons.

In this section of the State some of largest profits made from deciduous fruits have been from prunes, espe cially in the Pomona Valley, where some of the returns from this fruit have been fully equal to the average income from an orange grove. Wherever prune are carefully raised and properly graded there is little danger of overdoing the product, at least for many years to come.

The Raisin Business

Comparatively few people have a definite idea in regard to the remarkable growth of the raisin industry in the San Joaquin Valley, particularly around Fresno. Advices from that section state that there were shipped last year about 4500 carloads of raisins and dried grapes. Of this amount probably one-third was second crop, which gives 3000 cars of the first crop. The first crop this year is, perhaps, on the whole larger than last year; in old vineyards, no larger, and, in some cases, not so large, but in young vineyards, larger as Allowing for the large acreage dug up, it is probable that the first may be about 3600 cars, possibly The co-operatives and others will pack 600 cars or more, leaving but 3000 packers, some of whom claimed to have packed 1000 cars last season, or an averand dragooms, scouring the country for raisins, and the price would jump at once to 3 cents for an average crop, and before next spring there would be an aching void in the raisin market that would make it hungry for the crop of 1896 at 4 cents or more."

Fertilizers.

It is sometimes a surprise to farmers that they cannot continue the old-fashioned practice of relying entirely on the manure made in stables and barnyards for maintaining the fertility of their soil. There are several reasons why this cannot now be done of agricultural machinery, especially of labor-saving implements, has made possible to bring a larger proportion of their land under cultivation. This has necessitated a larger amount of fertil-izers from some source, while as the area in grass is diminished there is usu ally, though not always, a diminution of farm stock from which manure is to be made. On the best farms where the intensive system is followed, the amount of stock is larger than it used to be. But it is mainly fed on cultivated crops which require essful, and in such cases, while more manure is made on the farm, such farmers are most apt to buy manure, especially mineral fertilizers, in large

In a recent issue the American Cultivator points out the reason why stable manure will not "fill the bill" exclusively as a fertilizer on the farm.

Stable manure is not a well-balance plant food. It is largely carbonaceou and its chief value is in the nitrogen which it can supply to crops. There is a deficiency of the mineral plant food, especially of potash and phosphate. It is these that grain and fruit crops most need, and for this reason the farmer who has an abundant supply of stable manure is by that fact obliged to sup-plement it with the mineral plant food without which the nitrogen of the stable manure will mainly go to waste. Until mineral fertilizers were placed at the peach tree becomes brittle, and the received and unprofitable, going into decline or breaking down. Like all ther fruit trees the peach, in order of survive to a good old age and bear insul crops, must receive proper treatment.

So, too, with apricot trees. There are seconds of the apricot at the age of 25 cars bearing an average of four good rops in five years. The wood of this ree does not seem to age so rapidly as hat of the peach, nor to exhibit the been used as a market garden, and was full of decomposed manure. If no mineral fertilizer had been sown with to heavy and have fallen down, but a dressing of 150 pounds per acre of phosphate made the straw strong and bright, and the heads of the grain filled well and leaned over while the straw stood upright.

The American Cultivator has the following pertinent remarks on this im-portant subject: "The kind of manure that is needed must depend on the crop to be grown. Only seedsmen, gardeners and nurserymen, as a rule, can afford to buy stable manure. It is worth more to them because their crops will sell for more per acre, and also because, excepting seedmen, their crops do not require so much phosphate as do the hay and grain crops of the farmer. Most farmers are too far from cities or large villages to buy more than an occasional load of manure. But they may sometimes pick up a load in a near-by village or from the blacksmith shop. This last manure is especially valuable as it is the droppings of horses, mixed with the parings of their hoofs, which furnishes phosphate. Such manure is well worth a dollar a load whenever it can be got.

"But more important than buying stable manure is the careful saving and use of what is made on the farm. It is only the farmer who makes good use of all the manure his stock produces who can afford to buy mineral manures. Each supplement the other. There is already much land wnose vegetable matter has been so exhausted by cultivation that the use of phosphate does very little good to crops, This is most true of sandy and gravelly solls, whose strata of vegetable mould is naturally thin and is soon exhausted. On such land the sowing of clover seed is all important. All the stable manure that can be got should be used as top dressing for the clover: If this is done, a dressing of 150 to 200 pounds of phosphate will produce as good results on sandy or gravelly soil as it does on land that is naturally full of vegetable matter. It is the decomposition of the manure in the soil which provides carbonic acid gas, and this is what keeps the mineral manure from reverting to insoluble forms.

"The effects of stable manures are much more permanent than are those containing mineral plant food. It is not common to see any effect from an application of mineral plant food. It is not common to see any effect from an application of mineral prolongs the effect. With clover the large growth is always accompanied by large ro now the richest find most occasion to purchase fertilizers, and if they do not buy directly, they accomplish the same purpose by purchasing grain and concentrated feed to be fed out on the farm, and thus make a richer manure pile. But it requires good stock and skill in feeding to do this, and the better plan for average farmers is to buy as largely as they can of the fertilizers that have proven profitable on their land. So long as a mineral fertilizer pays its way in the increased grain crop, and increases the clover growth afterward, there can be no mistake in applying it as liberally as can be afforded. When farmers get in the way of expecting that most of their yearly gains will go toward making the farm more productive, they will soon reach a point where they will buy fertilizers much more largely than they have ever yet been able to do."

LIVE STOCK

Horses are very fond of millet, and especially so of the seeds. They will fatten on millet hay, but if there is a great proportion of seed in it the millet hould be given sparingly. There is a belief among farmers that millet seed injures the kidneys, but it has been fed to horses without injury. All very nitrogenous feed weakens the kidneys, and should be fed sparingly. It is best in growing millet for horses to sov pretty thickly. The stalk will be smaller and more readily eaten than will be of millet sown thinly to grow a

Pears seem to be the best fruit for the hen yard, says the Boston Plowman They flourish in the rich soil without cultivation and bear heavily. Apple trees also flourish, but much of the fruit falls upon the ground and is in-jured or left to be picked by the fowls Plums and peaches are nearly always short-lived in the highly nitrogenous soil of the hen yard.

Overdoing the Poultry Business. Overdoing the Poultry Business.

(C. W. Jaynes in Ohio Farm News:)
When I began years ago to pay a great deal of attention to my poultry, and when my neighbors, seeing that I was making the poultry pay very nicely, began to follow in my footsteps, there were some who began to predict that the poultry business would be overdone.
They pointed out the fact that the farm papers were paying more attention to were some was began to predict that the poulitry business would be overdone. They pointed out the fact that the farm papers were paying more attention to this branch of business than ever before, and they were free in their prophecies that it would not be long before eggs could not be sold at a price that would pay for taking them to market. Since that time the poultry interests have come to be one of the most important in the country, and bringing in more money than all the gold and sill-ver mines put together, and still eggs are kept at a price that makes them bring 100 per cent. more than it costs to produce them.

There are very few farmers who realize how much money comes from the poultry and eggs that are produced on the farm. If they will study the matter up they will find that the hens in the barnyard pay more for the food they use than almost anything else, in fact, except the indispensable horse, whose value is hard to compute, so much depends on him.

The farmer can keep a hen a year for less than 50 cents. This has been proven time and again, and it is a poor sort of a hen that will not produce ten dozen eggs a year, and the average price is above 10 cents a dozen, average the year through, and it will be seen that the farmer gets a dollar for an expenditure of 50 cents.

If he keeps his poultry as he should the average price will be nearer 20 cents a dozen than 10 cents, for he will get eggs in winter, when prices are all-ways high.

With all this increase in the products of the poultry yards of the country, there has never been a year when we did not import eggs, and this importation has not failen off, except as the tariff affected it, and a tariff of 5 cents a dozen did not cut off importations entirely.

A Small Cooler.

Some of our owners of small dairles who can command cool water from spring or well may like to fit up for themselves a milk cooler at small cost. The following is given by a reader of Farm and Fireside: My milk cooler is a box large enough to hold all my milk and cream cans and butter crocks. It has a spout down one corner within one inch of the bottom, to allow the water to flow in, thus putting the cold water in the bottom of the tank. The warm water rises to the surface and passes off down the hose, which is hooked up as high as you wish the water in the vat around the cans. When there is less milk in the cans, lower the hose by use of a wire chain. The warm water passes off at the top of the vat and runs out on our garden, and is used to irrigate it.

It does not matter how much or how little water is pumped into the vat at once, as it holds itself with the top of the hose all the time. There is no danger of overflowing or drowning the cans. Of course, there should be enough cold water pumped into the vat to keep the milk cool.

I find that when my milk is at the same temperature as the water coming from the well, it is about right to raise all of the cream. I used a plece of two-linch hose, and bored a two-linch hole in the box and inserted the hose. Then, in order to make the hose and box water tight, I bored a hole through a stick, which I drove inside of the hose where it passed through the tank.

I had good sweet milk and good buttermilk and fine hard shutter all summer. I shipped my butter to Omaha, and received for it at the depot 5 cents per pound more than we could get at the store at home. I also grew in my garden, after July 8, 1894, (at which time I was halled out and lost my entire crop,) one pall tomatoes, one bushel of turnips, one-half peck of beans, lots of lettuce and a few onlons, by irrigation from our milk tank.

The bean leaf is easily injured by con act with soil, and especially that which is wet. The blossom is still more ensitive, and it is almost impossible to cultivate after the bean has blossomed without getting some dirt on the blossom and making the beans rusty. If the work is thoroughly done up to blossoming time, the crop will ripen and will have few rusted beans. No work should be done in the bean field while the bean leaves are wet with dew.

A Review of the Wheat Crop.

A Review of the Wheat Crop.

(Red Bluff Sentinel:) It is realized, says George Ohleyer, that California has just harvested the shortest grain crop in years—some authorities say twenty-five years. It is from all accounts the lighest total since the State's harvest reached the figures in tons that will be revealed on the final summing up of the crop. It is not quite so bad for barley, corn and other spring crops; but for wheat, our chief dependence for exportation, the yield is the most disappointing that has ever occurred in the history of the State—disappointing because, in fully half of the wheat-growing area, appearances up to the beginning of harvest indicated a full average crop, and in some counties above it, hence the disappointment. It has almost uniformly been the rule that no short crops have occurred when the rainfall was an average one and was well distributed over the great interior valleys. But this year proand was well distributed over the great interior valleys. But this year pro-vides an exception, since the precipita-tion of moisture was fully up to an average everywhere, and in the Sacra-ments. Valley rices an exception, since the precipitation of moisture was fully up to an average everywhere, and in the Sacramento Valley was considerably above it and yet the cereals declined to grow, fill or mature. The cause then is worthy of investigation by students of agricultural science; and, assuming that the question will attract their attention, a few points may be submitted that seem to require adjustment. Practically all reports from local correspondents accuse the hot north winds of spring of deteriorating the crop, when in the year before the winds were hotter and remained in the north at least four times as long as last spring. Again, while the Sacramento Valley may have had more moisture than was useful, the San Josquin Valley was everywhere jubilant over sufficient and timely rains, producing a condition rarely excelled, and yet the results are very nearly alike in both divisions.

Then here and there we hear of wheat shelling out through heavy winds; but since the grain is somewhat shrunken, the loss from this cause is probably overestimated, as is evidenced by short yields around the bay and along the coast, where the drying north winds are unknown. Now, since the crops were good in 1894 throughout the Sacramento Valley, along the coast and in the San Joaquin, except in a few isolated spots, on a less than average rainfall, and during a slege of north wind scarcely paralleled in the history of the State, it becomes a question of surpassing interest what did produce the shortage the country is deploring. Who will answer the question?

A Good Idea.

It's a good idea to always have Tip Top Cough Syrup in the house. It will effect until y prevent a cough or cold from maturing if taken at first appearance of the trouble. It acts quicker than any other remedy—it's made different and it acts different. It cures where others fall. A 50c bottle will prove this to your entire satisfaction. All druggists sell it.

For a poor appetite, or a sore throat, for restlessness which disturbed the baby's sleep, and for troubles which beset the aged grand-parents, the favorite remedy was always turning up, although slightly modified from time to time and used often in conjunction with others. One day our friend happened to observe that the formula of a certain advertised remedy was identical with the latest identical with the latest prescription he had received from his own physician, and in some surprise he stated the case to him. The family doctor, after listening to what he had to say, replied: "The case is about this way: Whenever there is a disturbance of the functions of the body, no matter of what nature, it is pretty certain to be accompanied by a derangement of the digestive organs. When they are all right the patient gets well. That particular gets well. That particular formula that you have observed me to write more and more frequently is the result of an age of careful experiment, and is pretty generally agreed upon now by all educated physicians who keep up with the times. now by all educated physicians who keep up with the times. RIVERSIDE COUNTY. Noah Cummings Sues Sheriff John

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 6.—(Regular Correspondence.) An action has been commenced in the Superior Court by Noah Cummings of El Monte against Sheriff Johnson of Riverside county for the recovery of certain live stock, agricultural implements and harness found upon the Naramore ranch after the murder of T. C. Naramore, Sr., and which were taken under an attachment issued out of the Superior Court in the case of T. C. Naramore, Jr., vs. Caesar and John W. Cummings, to secure the money for the rent of the ranch during the year it was occupied by the Cummings brothers. Noah Cummings is the father of Caesar and John Cummings. tural Clab met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ed Lacy, on Chicago avenue. Mrs. J. H. Reed continued the subject of "Lightening the Cares of Household Duties." Her paper was very able and pertinent, and embraced many sides of the subject. The main idea running through Mrs. Reed's paper was that there was nothing jurgenome or sole and pertinent, and embraced many sides of the subject. The main idea running through Mrs. Reed's paper was that there was nothing burdensome or monotonous in home work when viewed aright, and that home work when viewed aright, and that home work was not by any means degrading, nor had any tendency to unfit a woman for ordinary social duties, and that it was quite in the line of the modern woman's work to lay aside her household duties to write a paper for a farmers' club or institute, or take an active part in its proceedings. A. C. Pickett read a paper on fruit-marketing under the exchange system. In the discussion that followed considerable criticism was indulged in on the exchange as a practical method of marketing Riverside products. It was said that, although the exchange had been theoretically a success, in practice it was a long way from being perfect. Prof. Zombro gave another or his scientific talks, showing the progress of root growth. The address was illustrated by practical examples. He showed roots growing in bottles of water, with and without the addition of fertilizers, and showed that when fertilizers were supplied the root system was less developed, but the tops made a much longer growth, the idea being that where nourishment was not in abundance the roots underwent a greater development in an active search for appropriate food. He also showed a polished slab of granite, which he had placed in the bottom of a box where plants were growing, which, in the short space of three weeks, was visibly eaten into and marked by the roots. The next meeting will be held at the home of J. H. Reed on Chicago avenué. William Irving will read a paper on lemons and lemon-tree growth. Prof. Zombro will present his views on the scientific phases of plant growth.

FIGHTING THE MAP.

Suit has been commenced against the county by County Surveyor Pearson to compel the Assessor to refrain from making maps for his office, and to enjoin Supervisors from paying the Assessor's deputies for such labor. For some time the Assessor has been making these maps with the aid of help much cheaper than the law allows the Surveyor for such work, thus depriving the last-named officer of a portion of the salary contemplated by law. The Supervisors acquiesced in the plan, as money was saved for the, county. The suit will cause a lively stir, which will likely cause the Supervisors to dismiss all deputies now paid by the county. The fact that the Supervisor and the Assessor are Populists and the Surveyors. Republican, is thought to have some weight in the dispute.

THE COUNTY HOSPITAL.

A question which has worked up considerable interest in the severe to the county.

no little ill-feeling besides, is the removal of the County Hospital to some other point than the county seat. It was settled yesterday, at least for the present, by the Board of Supervisors taking a new lease for a year of the building in Riverside now occupied by the hospital. A proposition, however, to purchase nineteen acres of the Riverside Land Company's laind for $100 per acre, for a poor-farm site, will receive attention at the October meeting of the board. This land is located in Riverside Valley, and is convenient to the central portion of the city.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Plain Facts About Whisky and Mar

PASADENA, Sept. 6, 1895.—(To the Editor of The Times:) The Los Angeles Herald, in its efforts to be sensational, has made itself ridiculous by devoting a column of space to an inconsequential affair which occurred in Recorder Rosaffair which occurred in Recorder Rossiter's courtroom August 29 and to which due publicity was given at the time. The matter would be unworthy of further notice, but for the fact that the Herald makes a malevolent attack on several city officials and accuses them of conspiring to get an aged Spanish couple drunk in order to get their consent to the marriage of their daughter to a young man who had seduced her. The plain facts of the marriage which has caused all the talk are herewith presented, so that it may be seen ter to a young man who had seduced her. The plain facts of the marriage which has caused all the talk are herewith presented, so that it may be seen how little foundation there is for the Herald's exaggerated statements.

On Saturday, August 24, Antonio Vejar, a teacher of the Spanish language, aged about 28, secured a license to marry Amalle Samarano, aged 16, by swearing that she was 18 years old. The father of the girl filed a complaint against the young man for perjury, and he was arrested and placed in jail. Before the case came to trial, the father of the girl, in Recorder Rossister's chambers, in the presence of three members of his family, gave his consent to the wedding of the young sent to the wedding of the young couple, but the mother was obdurate. The afternoon of the day upon which the father gave his consent, the perjury case came to trial. The girl swore positively that she had told Vejar that she was 18, and Vejar siso swore to the fact, and, as no criminal intent was shown, the case was dismissed, and the wedding proceeded. Now, the Herald comes out with a statement that the father of the girl was made drunk in Marshal Buchanan and Recorder Rossiter participating in the debauch, and, when the old man was in an irresponsible condition, on account of the quantity of drink he had taken, he gave his consent to the marriage, but that the mother resisted all attempts to intoxicate her, and gave her consent under protest, because her husband had done so.

rotest, because her husband had done so.

Conrado Lopez, who was the interpreter in the case, and was present during the whole proceeding, says, just before the marriage, old man Samarano complained of having a cramp in his stomach, and asked for whisky. The Marshal had in his cabinet a fiask of whisky, taken from a tramp some time before. The bottle and a glass were handed to Samarano, who poured into the glass about two tablespoonfuls of the liquor and drank it. Vejar said he would like some, and Samarano gave it to him. No liquor was offered to Mrs. Samarano by the officers, but her prospective sonin-law jokingly offered her some and pressed the invitation, which she declined. He drank a small glassful, and soon afterward Rev. Clark Crawford appeared, and the marriage ceremony was performed. After the ceremony Samarano went against to Buchanan's office and asked for another drink of the whisky, and again the Marshal got the bottle for him. Constable Slater and Lopez both assert that neither Marshal Buchanan nor Recorder Rossiter and Rossiter are both pronounced tectotalers. The statement that Samarano was drunk, or even partially drunk, so that he was unaccountable, is a palpable falsesood, as half a dozen witnesses who were present can testify.

is a paipable falsesood, as half a dozen witnesses who were present can testify.

The father of the bride voluntarily signed the marriage certificate. The mother was requested to sign, but she could not write. Recorder Rossiter signed his own name and not that of the mother, to the certificate. The arfidavit to which the name of Ramon Samarano is affixed in this morning's Herald is false in substance and statement, and that paper, in lending itself to the propagation of such a story, has aroused genuine "indignation" among respectable citizens.

The girl in the case had been wronged, and the young man was eager and anxious to make reparation. The girl, too, was eager to be married to the young man, and said that the only ground of her parents' objection was that Vejar was well educated. The exertions of the officers to win the consent of the parents were made on the grounds of public propriety and morality, and that the girl might be protected from the consequences of her foily, and her child legitimatized.

This is all there is to the story, and the Herald has stuitified itself in making so much ado about nothing.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 6.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Santa Ana public is considerably worked up over the attitude of the Santa Ana Gas and Electric nishing of forty are lights to be placed on masts in the street. The Gas and Electric Light Company is the only in-stitution in the city in a position to bid for the business, and, therefore, the city is at its mercy, as was evidenced in the bid that was handed in from that com-pany last Monday night when the Coun-cil mat

Instead of bidding only for furnishing the light the company tacked on a clause making it obligatory upon the part of the city, if the bid had been accepted, to purchase the electric plant of the company at the end of the year, if the contract was not renewed, for $6000, and to pay for all extensions or improvements made to comply with the contract for the year. The bid was unreasonable and unlawful, and was, consequently, rejected by the Board of Trustees. As the matter now stands the city goes back to the old half dozen or so lights, that are more of a disgrace than a credit to the city.

see displayed therefrom for the first time, a large sign having a literally blood-red field and letters of pure white announcing that the property was "For Rent." The sign was suggestive. The owner is now in a Missouri jail, charged with splitting open the skull of his wife's first husband with an ax. A few months ago this blustering physician was swaggering about the city threatening to blow out the brains of newspaper correspondents who dared report the news concerning the actions of this man, or the facts about the infamous murder which he and his wife are charged with committing.

There is a strong desire to have the Chamber of Commerce meet and protest against the publication by interested water schemers of injurious untruths concerning San Diego's water supply. These lies make it almost impossible to sell property. People who read the local paper are led to believe that the city and county is literally parched; that the water is impure. The hypocritical attitude of the water schemer is well known in this city, but abroad his character is less fully understood. At present the circulator of untruthful stories about San Diego water is engaged in the hopeless task of trying to make the people believe that an untruthful criticism of the water supply will be of positive help to the city. He charges others with bad faith, whereas his own record in breaking contracts is notorious. The belief is that people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw stones.

A large number of excursionists are expected tomorrow—3000 or 4000 at least. The streets and buildings are being decorated, and the preparations for the reception of the Native Sops are elaborate. The hop in their honor at the Hotel dei Coronado on Monday night will be one of the most magnificent balls ever held on the Coast.

It is reported that there is at present considerable bad blood existing between the Pomona Land and Water Company and the owners of the "Old Settlement" system: in fact it is claimed that the latter take turns in guarding their water to keep the former from diverting it (which they claim they have a right to) into their system. It seems that this water question is of the utmost importance; so much so, that it stands the ranchers in hand to know whether or not they have any and just where it is.

A Rochester correspondent writes that during the months that have elapsed since the last packing season there have been frequent visits made to the Rochester Fruit Company's packing house and raisins and packing material carried away and trays and boxes destroyed. Notwithstanding the company's secretary has continually watched the building and nailed up the openings and locked the doors, they were broken open repeatedly and entrance effected. The michief has been thought to be the work of ordinary tramps until a few days ago when the secretary's saw a man sulking around the house. The secretary gave chase, but the pursued proved too fleet of foot and escaped. The matter has been called to the attention of the officers, who are making a dilligent search for the thief. He is described as having a yellow complexion, with dark hair and shaggy mustache. Height, 5 feet 3 inches; stoops when he walks. Unkempt in in personal appearance.

· SANTA BARBARA COUNTY Three Spanish Residents Suspected

SANTA BABARBA, Sept. 6.—(Regular Correspondence.) A Spokane dispatch, published in the Examiner, arpatch, published in the Examiner, arriving today, has created a sensation in Santa Barbara. Three well-known residents of this place are, according to the story, suspected of murder.

The paper states that three weeks ago a party of four Spaniards registered at a Grangeville (Idaho) hotel, giving their names as M. A. Bartello, J. G. Descassetro, F. Ruiz and H. Vanhober, from Santa Barbara. They announced that they were on a prospecting tour. The next day they left for Fforence, where Bartello said he was Sheriff of Santa Rosa (Cal.) county, and was hunting a fugitive from justice. The four left on pack horses for the mines, and two hours later all returned afoot to Florence, except Vanhober. They said their horses had escaped, and left word for Vanhober that they had gone on ahead.

Last Tuesday the decomposed body of a man answering Vanhober's description was found in the mines a few miles from Florence. The head was crushed in, and every indication pointed to the fact that Vanhober had been murdered by his companions.

The names of the party are given incorrectly in the Examiner's report. About a month ago an expedition, backed by such reputable men as Sheriff S. C. Hicks, his brother, Deputy Sheriff S. C. Hicks, Deputy Sheriff J. G. de la Cuesta, Louis Ruiz, Coroner A. M. Ruiz and Apollinari Romero, left for Idaho, in search of gold. The treasure-hunters were Mr. de la Cuesta, M. A. Three members of the party, De la Cuesta, Ruiz and Botello, returned to Santa Barbara August 30. They stated that their trip had not been successful. Van Hubbart had remained in Idaho, where he had friends.

He stated that the morning they left camp for home, Van Hubbart started out to find his horse, that had not been staked during the night: they waited until afternoon, the night: they waited until afternoon, and the missing man failed to appear, though his horse had been found by the others. It was getting late, so the three decided to go out and leave Van Hubbart. They saw no more of him.

Botello is in Santa Ynez at present, and Ruiz is at his home on the San Marcos grade. De la Cuesta belongs to one of the old Spanish families, and has always been held in high regard. His friends and the friends of the others who were with the party give the story no credence.

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 5.—(Regular Correspondence.) Some of the plunder taken by the robbers of the Summerland postoffice has been discovered; the money-drawer taken from the safe, together with a few dollars worth of stamps, some pennies, and private papers, things of no value to any one but the owners, were found yesterday evening in a hayfield, within 100 yards of the office. They were by the side of a haystack, but not covered, and they showed no indication of having been there for any length of time. It is thought that the parties implicated in the crime had feared investigation and a search of their premises, and decided to put the articles out of the way. Sheriff Hicks and other officers have been in Summerland today, but have discovered nothing to lead to the detection of the parties. It is the general belief that local men were implicated in the robbery, but the officers have so far been unsuccessful in locating them.

Autumn

Dress Silks.

Every day there are fresh arrivals of Women's ready-made Dresses, Shirt Waists, Wrappers and Skirts. A great house, a leader in its line, asks us to convert its stock into cash. Won't bring the cash it ought to but that's a misfortune for the manufacturer; we can't help that; neither are the goods at fault—they are all right.

They are opened and put into stock for selling immediately upon receipt, especially for tourists who may be in Los Angeles again this season, this is a great opportunity to examine and see the small prices we put on them.

STRIPED TAFFETAS, BARRE TAF and $1 each. The dainty, choice styles that have been so scarce recently; RAISED CORD and BROCADED TAFmostly made from foreign stuffs; laundered collar and cuffs. etc. Specials in BLACK GROUND FANCIES, values up to one dollar per yard; today 65c yard.

Wool Dress Stuffs.

Such Wool Dress Goods as are suited t Autumn wear are placed at prices that will quickly remove them. Tailor-made double-breasted Prince Albert Costumes of brown coverts; velvet collar, large sleeves, full, round godet skirts, coat lined with silk, silk-lined throughout. The original price and value was $20.

Fall Novelties, 35c yard.

In seven handsome color combina tions, sufficient to please the most ex-Women's Suits, $12.50. acting; the value is such as you pay 50c for. The material is an imported brown mixed Scotch Novelty Suffing: the style Prince Albert double-breasted, full Pa-quin skirts; elegantly shaped and fin-ished. The coal is silk-lined; ideal cos-tumes for early fall. Former price, &S.

Col'd Dress Goods, 50c yd

Be prudent and make your selection early; many are rich and costly but 50c, the price we ask, is low enough to meet the most economical ideas. And $1 each; opened one case of each only; they're worth just 33% per cent. more; expect we'll sell them out today.

54-inch Fall Novelty Sultingsmottled plaids, boucle and moor light effects, cheviots, 46-incl storm serges, dentelles, shepherd plaids, plaid cheviots, fancy mixtures, wool checks, silk and wool mixtures, figured cheviots and coverts, all at 50c, though the values are actually 75c and 85c per yard.

Black Dress Goods.

They must be perfect black, not the kind that grows gray or green after a short service—and looks seedy, too— Ypsilanti Health Underwear Comno such stuff for us, we have no use for any's choicest ribbed cashmere union it; ours are the best that can be found uits, ankle length; all sizes at same in the wide world-no matter how small a price we ask for them.

My! oh, my!

How those Men's Hats are selling out. Of course the prices are very little, but price alone wouldn't do it. They are shapes you want, every one of them.
